Shootout Survivor— Formal Murder Charge

By WALTER S. CLARK

A second convict who survived the fatal shootout on the State Thruway in the Town of Plattekill Friday afternoon, was formerly charged with murder Monday afternoon and arraigned at the Kingston State Police barracks strapped to a stretcher and handcuffed.

Charles Culhane, 23, formerly of the Bronx, who was under sentence in Auburn prison for a term of 7½ to 10 years and 10 to 20 years respectively in connection with an abortive holdup in Pelham Manor in December, 1966, was kept under close surveillance of troopers during the court proceeding.

Previously arrested and charged with murder in the death of Westchester County Deputy Sheriff William Fitzgerald, 63, of North Tarrytown, was Gerald McGivern, also 23, who was doing a term in Auburn of 7½ to 10 years for robbery and assault at the time of the Friday afternoon shootout.

A third convict, who figured in the sensational escape attempt was Robert Bowerman, formerly of New York City, who was serving a term in state prison for a holdup and assault in that city. Bowerman was fatally wounded by Deputy Sheriff Joseph Singer, 58, of North Tarrytown, who was driving Fitzgerald's car at the time of the shooting.

Culhane was taken from St. Francis' Hospital in Poughkeepsie shortly after noon yesterday and under heavy police guard was transported by Doctors Ambulance manned by Gilbert E. Gray, owner of the service and Daniel Fochi, an attendant, to Lake Katrine for arraignment before Ulster Town Justice Arthur A. Reilly.

Culhane, showing the sign of the shot that hit him on the head back of the left ear, was taken from the ambulance and wheeled into a room on a stretcher for arraignment before Judge Reilly. Before the court convened, Culhane asked, "Can I have a smoke?"

Troopers handed him a cigarette.

Culhane appeared nervous as Judge Reilly started to read the information filed against him by Senior BCI Investigator Charles Teelon. As the judge read the word "murder," the prisoner's face flushed red. The judge continued reading slowly. He said he wanted the defendant to fully understand the charge which accused Culhane of acting in consort with McGivern in attempting to escape from the two deputy sheriffs, and during a struggle in the car which resulted in Fitzgerald's death and the wounding of two of the prisoners.

Judge Reilly advised Culhane as the later laid strapped to a stretcher that the charge was felony murder. He informed the prisoner of his full rights to counsel, and his right to have a preliminary hearing before the committing magistrate, and if he was not financially able the court would assign counsel.

Culhane said, "I will waive the preliminary hearing and go to the grand jury." Later after further instructions by Judge Reilly who assured the defendant he would assign an attorney, the accused slayer said he wanted a preliminary hearing and the case was adjourned for two weeks.

Judge Reilly said he would appoint counsel and have him go to Benedictine Hospital, where Culhane was later taken, to consult with the accused man. After the court hearing, the prisoner was replaced in the ambulance and under trooper escort, was taken to Benedictine, where a guard will be maintained at the bedside of the prisoner around the clock.

The shooting incident occurred at about 1:30 p.m. Friday while the two deputies were transporting the three handcuffed prisoners from Auburn prison to White Plains for a hearing in County court on a writ of error filed by Culhane who claimed he was coerced into pleading guilty to a charge of second degree robbery by threats from the Westchester district attorney's office.

Asst. Dist. Attorney Anthony Morosco was preparing to go into court on Monday to deny that threats were made. McGivern and Bowerman, a cellmate of Culhane, were to have been witnesses.

25 Leathernecks Killed, 126 Wounded by Red Fire

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops caught a column of U.S. Marines as the Leathernecks were digging in for the night Monday, killed 25 and wounded 126 with more than 200 mortar rounds and a hail of small arms fire.

The Americans struck back with mortars, artillery and helicopter gunships. The Marines reported 27 of the enemy killed in the 10-hour fight four miles south of the central part of the demilitarized zone.

The Marines were from the 26th Regiment, the defenders of Khe Sanh who held out against a 77-day Communist siege last winter, and then abandoned that outpost. The casualties Monday were comparable to those on the worst days at Khe Sanh.

The first North Vietnamese barrage pounded in at 3:30 p.m. just as the Marines were moving into defensive positions for the night, one of the most vulnerable spots troops can be in. The Marines apparently were caught before they could get their foxholes dug.

U.S. helicopters and artillery and mortars pounded the North Vietnamese positions, but the Communists kept up the attack until 6:30 p.m. More than 150 North Vietnamese also were killed in this fight. The Marines had no dead and seven men wounded.

Two hours later, the North Vietnamese renewed their mortar and an hour later small arms fire cracked around the Marine perimeter.

The attack didn't end until 1:30 a.m. today.

The mortars apparently caused most of the Marine casualties," said a U.S. spokesman. A mile away from the 26th Marines' battleground, Marines from the 8th Regiment clashed with a North Vietnamese platoon of perhaps 40 to 50 men in fortified positions. Jet fighter-bombers and artillery pounded the positions until the enemy soldiers withdrew as darkness was approaching.

U.S. headquarters said 27 North Vietnamese also were killed in this fight. The Marines had no dead and seven men wounded.

A spokesman said that troops from the two Marine regiments are conducting sweep operations in close proximity to each other, trying to clear the area of North Vietnamese troops pressing along the central DMZ.

With Khe Sanh abandoned, constructed bunkers in which there are indications that they uncovered a third big munitions stockpile. It included 1,600 rounds of mortars, rockets and rifle grenades, more than 100 cases of ammunition for automatic weapons and small arms, 300 claymore mines, and more than 200 hand grenades.

South Vietnamese rangers also were hit hard in the northern war zone when an estimated 400 North Vietnamese attacked a ranger battalion's camp about 10 miles below Da Nang, killed 22 and wounded 80. But a second battalion of rangers caught up with the Communist attackers several hours later and reported the area and uncovered 40 well killing 62 of them.

Arabs and Israelis Exchange Shots

TEL AVIV (AP) — Arab gunners shelled the Israeli town of Bet She'an with 130mm. rockets Monday night, and several hours later the Israelis retaliated by hammering the Jordanian town of Irbid with artillery.

It was the first time the Arabs have used such heavy rockets and the first time since June 4 that populated areas in the troubled Beisan Valley have come under attack.

The rocket launcher, mounted on a truck, hurled eight projectiles at Bet She'an at 7 p.m., injuring eight civilians.

There was no word of casualties from the retaliatory Israeli attack.

A reliable source said the shelling was the work of "an Arab terrorist group, and my guess would be El Fatah," but he added that the Jordanian army obviously had to cooperate in the attack.

Since the Israelis shelled Irbid on June 4, commando attacks and Jordanian shelling had concentrated on Israeli military positions in the Jordanian and Beisan Valleys, south of the Sea of Galilee. Since Aug. 18, there have been 100 incidents of violence along the 250-mile Jordan cease-fire line, with five Israeli soldiers killed, and 26 soldiers and 12 civilians wounded.

During the night Jordanian and Israeli troops also exchanged fire with cannon, mortars and small arms near the Allenby Bridge, eight miles north of the Dead Sea.

No Israeli or Jordanian casualties were reported in the two-hour duel. Each blamed the other for starting the fight, and Jordan said two Israeli batteries and one observation post were destroyed.

Meanwhile, Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan told a United Labor party rally that the Israelis "have to be ready for the possible renewal of war, and in this case we must be equipped to win a full victory."

"I don't know if there will be another war," he continued. "I hope the Egyptians will not make the fatal mistake and be misled by their leaders into sparking another war against us."

At the Suez Canal, where 10 Israeli soldiers and 15 Egyptians were reported killed in a prolonged artillery duel, more than 400 Arab refugees were exchanged, and Egyptian boat crews and Israeli soldiers chatted and laughed with each other as they helped the refugees.

Under the supervision of the International Red Cross, 225 Palestinian Arabs caught in Egypt during the 1967 war and 226 Egyptians caught in the Israeli advance were exchanged between the two halves of El Quantara.

Alexander Tells Chamber Expect Garage Open by Spring

By HUGH REYNOLDS

G. Scott Alexander, chairman of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, addressed a breakfast meeting of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce today and said the agency expects to have a parking garage on the site of the former Montgomery Ward Building on North Front Street completed by next spring.

Alexander said bids on the estimated $760,000 project should go out "around Nov. 1" with demolition of the Wards Building before the middle of November.

The garage, however, will not be as large as previously planned (around 500 cars). According to Alexander, due to rising costs since the garage was planned almost five years ago, it will be limited to about 400 cars.

Alexander reviewed urban renewal in Kingston, noting that the $16,000,000 for both projects (Uptown and Downtown) was surpassed in the state only by Rochester and Albany in allotted funds.

He spoke of the administrative problems of urban renewal, saying, "If anyone ran a business like this they'd go bankrupt in three months."

He said his staff spends "85 per cent" of their time on forms and described it as a "horrendous conglomeration of red tape."

New Contract Next Week
The Downtown project has been allotted $8,500,000 of which the agency has already spent $2,500,000 in property acquisition. A new demolition contract for downtown will be let next week, Alexander said, but the properties below Meadow Street, near The Kingston Daily Freeman offices, will not be demolished until next spring.

Alexander said the area below Meadow Street will be used for retail-commercial redevelopment and that a supermarket chain is interested in building there. He added that any development is "still a couple of years away," pending the construction of the proposed Rondout Arterial.

Uptown, Alexander said, the agency has purchased $730,000 worth of property. He said the area had "fantastic possibilities for redevelopment," and in fact, had several large firms, including a department store, seeking property to build up town.

Alexander also pointed out that urban renewal land would not be sold at bargain basement prices. "This is no windfall," he said. "The land is appraised and sold at a fair market price."

During the question and answer period, Alexander was asked if the agency's acquisition and condemnation proceedings could be speeded up. He was also asked why the agency couldn't give developers a firm date on when they could take title on their desired land.

Alexander allowed that the agency's redevelopment program was "weak" but while the agency had a generally excellent staff, it had few persons expert in the field of redevelopment.

He spoke of a recent meeting with the agency where plans to bring more efficiency to the redevelopment sector of urban renewal were discussed.

Alexander also discussed relocation, stating that it was a misnomer to say Kingston has a housing problem. He said that Rondout Gardens, presently under construction by the Kingston Housing Authority, should prove adequate to relocate any one who previously lived in Broadway East.

A Tour, Meeting at Miller School

By HUGH REYNOLDS

The parents, teachers and administration of M. Clifford Miller Jr. High School got together last night, toured the new facility and discussed its rumored problems at a mass meeting in the gymnasium.

Donald Anderson, the principal, presided at the meeting, attended by some 500 parents who submitted questions, both written and oral, to him.

There had been wide-spread rumors of serious trouble at the new school including fights between students, attacks on teachers and possible racial conflict.

Anderson was asked if there was a racial problem at the school. His answer, "No. We're putting two different groups of children together. There is a newness to the situation. Some children have tested authority. A few have tried some things and gotten away with it. They've tried it again and maybe they haven't."

Situation Under Control

Anderson allowed that there had been some pushing incidents between students but that the staff had the situation under control.

He spoke of the "big transition" from grade school, where a student has one teacher all day in the same room, to junior high school, where a student has as many as seven different teachers in as many rooms.

He also spoke of the age transition of a child from grade school to high school. "These are kids," he said, "Thirteen, 14- and 15-year-old kids. They're not adults."

One parent asked why discipline at the new school was "so poor." Anderson answered that he had been in close contact with his teachers on that subject and that they reported few problems.

He also spoke of the policy of "equal punishment" when required. "There are 825 students here and we treat them all the same. Every situation has to be dealt with on its individual merits. What works with one student may not necessarily work with another."

There was a round of applause from the audience after one parent took the floor and said that "there was a big difference between asking intelligent questions and throwing out a lot of abuse."

County Bar Endorses Streifer

By LYNN MULVANEY

In an almost unprecedented but not unexpected move, members of the Ulster County Bar Association last night endorsed the candidacy of Democrat-Liberal Abraham Streifer for the U.S. Supreme Court, Third Judicial District.

The last time both Republican and Democrat members of the local bar joined in a similar endorsement was about 40 years ago.

The motion to support Streifer, a confidential law clerk to the Supreme Court for 30 years, was made by Peter Harp of New Paltz and seconded by Robert V. Stapleton of Ellenville. President Seymour Werbalowsky presided.

Among several speaking in behalf of Streifer's candidacy, was retired Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Shirick, for whom Streifer was employed.

The motion passed with only two dissenting votes among the unusually high (50) attendance of members.

Those calling for the election of Streifer stressed the urgent need for an additional resident justice for Ulster County.

It was also pointed out that unless Streifer is elected, Ulster County, with a population of almost 125,000, will be relegated to the judicial manpower of other counties ranging in population from 22,000 to 47,000.

Respect Needed

In summing up the half-hour question and answer period, Anderson said, "What we need here is respect for others, true respect. And parents have to instill it in their children."

He said respect has to be bred at home and concluded with (to the parents), "If you don't have respect for your fellow man then how in the world can you expect your kids to have it."

Previous to the question and answer session a tour of the school was conducted for parents by some 50 members of the staff, all volunteers. Anderson commended his teachers, stating that they had as much interest in the welfare of the school as the parents and the administration and they proved it by volunteering their time last night.

Dr. W. Wendell Hoover, Kingston Consolidated superintendent of schools, was also present at last night's meeting and answered some questions on busing.

There was one parent who's child evidently lived within the one and a half mile radius of the school for busing and had to take what the parent termed a hazardous route to get to school. The parent asked why his child wasn't bused, in view of the dangerous situation.

Trip to Albany

Hoover replied that he and members of the board had taken a special trip to Albany to the State Education Department and discussed that problem. They had been told, according to Hoover, that the only criteria for busing was distance from the school and that hazardous conditions were not a factor.

Plans were also made for a school parent-teacher club and another open house sometime in November.

HOLD MASS RALLY—United Federation of Teachers President Albert Shanker (2nd L.) is accompanied by civil rights leader Bayard Rustin (R) at a mass rally of some 15,000 teachers last night at New York City Hall. A Tour, Meeting at Miller School

By HUGH REYNOLDS

The parents, teachers and administration of M. Clifford Miller Jr. High School got together last night, toured the new facility and discussed its rumored problems at a mass meeting in the gymnasium.

Donald Anderson, the principal, presided at the meeting, attended by some 500 parents who submitted questions, both written and oral, to him.

There had been wide-spread rumors of serious trouble at the new school including fights between students, attacks on teachers and possible racial conflict.

Anderson was asked if there was a racial problem at the school. His answer, "No. We're putting two different groups of children together. There is a newness to the situation. Some children have tested authority. A few have tried some things and gotten away with it. They've tried it again and maybe they haven't."

Situation Under Control

Anderson allowed that there had been some pushing incidents between students but that the staff had the situation under control.

He spoke of the "big transition" from grade school, where a student has one teacher all day in the same room, to junior high school, where a student has as many as seven different teachers in as many rooms.

He also spoke of the age transition of a child from grade school to high school. "These are kids," he said. "Thirteen, 14- and 15-year-old kids. They're not adults."

One parent asked why discipline at the new school was "so poor." Anderson answered that he had been in close contact with his teachers on that subject and that they reported few problems.

He also spoke of the policy of "equal punishment" when required. "There are 825 students here and we treat them all the same. Every situation has to be dealt with on its individual merits. What works with one student may not necessarily work with another."

There was a round of applause from the audience after one parent took the floor and said that "there was a big difference between asking intelligent questions and throwing out a lot of abuse."

Respect Needed

In summing up the half-hour question and answer period, Anderson said, "What we need here is respect for others, true respect. And parents have to instill it in their children."

He said respect has to be bred at home and concluded with (to the parents), "If you don't have respect for your fellow man then how in the world can you expect your kids to have it."

Previous to the question and answer session a tour of the school was conducted for parents by some 50 members of the staff, all volunteers. Anderson commended his teachers, stating that they had as much interest in the welfare of the school as the parents and the administration and they proved it by volunteering their time last night.

Dr. W. Wendell Hoover, Kingston Consolidated superintendent of schools, was also present at last night's meeting and answered some questions on busing.

There was one parent who's child evidently lived within the one and a half mile radius of the school for busing and had to take what the parent termed a hazardous route to get to school. The parent asked why his child wasn't bused, in view of the dangerous situation.

Trip to Albany

Hoover replied that he and members of the board had taken a special trip to Albany to the State Education Department and discussed that problem. They had been told, according to Hoover, that the only criteria for busing was distance from the school and that hazardous conditions were not a factor.

Plans were also made for a school parent-teacher club and another open house sometime in November.

County Bar Endorses Streifer

By LYNN MULVANEY

In an almost unprecedented but not unexpected move, members of the Ulster County Bar Association last night endorsed the candidacy of Democrat Abraham Streifer for the U.S. Supreme Court, Third Judicial District.

The last time both Republican and Democrat members of the local bar joined in a similar endorsement was about 40 years ago.

The motion to support Streifer, a confidential law clerk to the Supreme Court for 30 years, was made by Peter Harp of New Paltz and seconded by Robert V. Stapleton of Ellenville. President Seymour Werbalowsky presided.

Among several speaking in behalf of Streifer's candidacy, was retired Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Shirick, for whom Streifer was employed.

The motion passed with only two dissenting votes among the unusually high (50) attendance of members.

Those calling for the election of Streifer stressed the urgent need for an additional resident justice for Ulster County.

It was also pointed out that unless Streifer is elected, Ulster County, with a population of almost 125,000, will be relegated to the judicial manpower of other counties ranging in population from 22,000 to 47,000.

Salazar in Coma, 2nd Clot in Brain

LISBON (UPI) — Strongman Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar, at 79 Europe's oldest and longest ruling chief of state, lay in a coma near death today with a second blood clot in his brain.

A source close to his Portuguese government said Salazar's condition was "practically without hope" after a sudden relapse Monday in his recovery from surgery Sept. 7 to remove a first blood clot from his head.

At his side were his priest, Padre Rocha, and Cardinal Manuel Goncalves Cerejeira, the Roman Catholic patriarch of Lisbon and an old school chum of the premier. Salazar was in an oxygen tent.

Prior to the setback, doctors said Salazar had been making a "favorable recovery" and was about ready to go home. He had been walking around his hospital room and taking solid food.

But then his surgeon, Dr. Vasconcelos, tersely announced Monday the premier had taken "a sudden and unexpected turn for the worse." Informed government sources said he collapsed in his room and lapsed into a deep coma.

A medical bulletin issued by suburban Red Cross Hospital Monday night said Salazar suffered a "sudden and grave vascular accident in the right cerebral hemisphere" which meant the new clot appeared unexpectedly.

There were unconfirmed reports President Americo Thomaz and other top government officials interrupted their hospital vigil for a conference to decide who would be the new premier.

One of the most eligible candidates was Marcello Caetano, a former foreign minister and former minister of overseas territories who now teaches law at Lisbon University.

The shy, soft-spoken Salazar, who has been called the "unobtrusive dictator," studied for the priesthood before turning to the career as an economist that led him into his role as Portugal's sole leader for 36 years. He has remained devoutly religious.

Salazar became Portugal's premier in 1932, balanced a troubled budget and stabilized the nation politically albeit controversially. In 1933 he said democracy was an outworn creed and declared himself "profoundly antiparlimentary."

He paid himself $130 a week to run Portugal, maintained a modest house, never married and wore no medals. He does not smoke, drinks diluted wine and never blanketed the country with photographs of himself.

New Fortas Hazards

WASHINGTON (AP) — Abe Fortas' nomination as chief justice, a near-certain survivor of unprecedented committee hearings, faces new hazards on the Senate floor where the possibilities include bitter debate, a filibuster and perhaps defeat.

Even opponents in the Senate Judiciary Committee predicted a favorable vote for Fortas at today's closed session, which was scheduled last week after a bitter two months stalemate.

No nominee for chief justice ever appeared personally during Senate Judiciary Committee hearings as did Fortas when he underwent lengthy questioning last July.

President Johnson named Fortas as a successor to the retiring Earl Warren June 26.

In the Senate, where a filibuster is threatened by a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats, the outcome is in doubt.

To choke off a filibuster by putting the Senate's debate-limiting rule into effect takes a two-thirds majority of those voting.

Opponents claim they have the votes to keep debate going and perhaps even enough strength to defeat the nomination outright, which would require only a simple majority.

Majority Lead Mike Mansfield told the Senate Monday that if Fortas is not confirmed, Warren probably will stay on as chief justice "for a long time to come."

Warren has made his retirement contingent upon Fortas' confirmation.

Opponents have based their attack on claims that President Johnson has no right in the waning days of his administration to make such an important nomination; that the President was guilty of "cronyism" in nominating an old friend; that Fortas violated the concept of separation of powers by advising Supreme Court from overturning Johnson while sitting on the jury findings of obscenity.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, SEPTEMBER 17, 1968

Preliminary Forecast

With polls showing George C. Wallace racking up 20 per cent of the national vote, the fear that the Presidential election this fall will be deadlocked and go to the House of Representatives for final solution grows by the day.

However, political analysts are not as disturbed by this prospect as are some in the camps of the candidates. They do not discount the large popular vote Wallace might get, but except in the hard-core Wallace states such as Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana and Mississippi, they think it will be scattered and will not be big enough to put over an electoral slate. In other words, in a three-way battle in most states, Wallace would not come out ahead.

Assaying the election by states, not by individual votes, they find Nixon has a commanding lead at this point, with Humphrey and Wallace fighting for second place, and Wallace given a chance of edging Humphrey and becoming the second runner. That is a result that we find hard to believe because Humphrey does have the regular Democratic organized labor and the Negro vote in his favor.

According to this analysis, Nixon starts with the electoral votes of the midwest and western states, with a choice then of aiming his campaign to capture the industrial states away from Humphrey or the southern and border states away from Wallace or both. Humphrey can depend only on Massachusetts, Rhode Island and the District of Columbia and will have to fight for everything else. While Wallace can claim five southern states he will have to fight hard for the border states and any northern inroads.

When the states leaning to the three candidates are included, Nixon is given several states where he fell short in 1960 by less than one per cent of the vote, because the national sentiment has changed and also because Republicans have since captured several statehouses and with them built state political organizations.

The election is eight long weeks away and much can happen to change the estimate, but at this writing, that is the way the smart money lies.

Hard-Core Unemployed

In the nation's 50 largest cities, the first commitment on pledges made by business firms to find jobs for 165,000 of the hard-core unemployed has been completed. There are more than 63,000 trained and in jobs found for them by the JOBS program, as the Department of Labor and the National Alliance of Businessmen report.

The program is running ahead of schedule, according to Leo C. Beebe, executive vice chairman of the businessmen's alliance. Industry has done better than it promised the JOBS program—Job Opportunities in the Business Sector. The Labor Department reimburses for extra costs of remedial education, medical care, transportation and other supportive services. Up to now, the average cost per trainee has been under $3,000. As the program goes deeper and deeper into the hard-core, the cost is expected to rise nearer the anticipated $3,500 budgeted for it.

Which brings us to some speculation: The hard-core unemployed roughly number 500,000. If they can be located, trained and hired in lucrative jobs for $3,500 each, the whole problem of putting the full complement of 500,000 hard-core unemployed to work would come to $1.75 billion. We've said it before, what could be cheaper, if in this way we eliminate the unemployable unemployment problem that is at the core of poverty in this country? Not only would it reduce welfare payments, but it would turn dependents into producers, possibly even taxpayers.

If the first 50 cities could promise 165,000 jobs, what can the next 100 do? They are almost all in the 100,000 and more class, with large industries and businesses. JOBS has shown that hard-core unemployment can be licked, and with it a good share of the social ills that beset the country. It should be expanded until all of the unemployables are at work.

Pavel Litvinov, whose grandfather Maxim negotiated the recognition of the Soviet Union with the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration, has been outspoken in defense of writers in his native country. When he tried to organize a pro-Czechoslovak demonstration in Red Square, Moscow, he was arrested. He had tried the patience of the Kremlin autocrats.

"---And if You Happen to Throw a Beanball, I'll Happen to Look the Other Way!"

David Lawrence Says Supreme Court Blamed For U.S. Crime Wave

WASHINGTON — The American people "seem to be fed up" with the Supreme Court. That's what is being said to many of the campaign workers in both parties as they canvass voters. It appears to be one of the "grievances" which have emerged because of the failure to reduce crime in America.

A Gallup Poll taken in June 1968 asked for the attitude of citizens toward Supreme Court decisions. The survey showed 63 per cent "unfavorable" and 11 per cent with "no opinion." This compared with a June 1967 poll in which only 46 per cent were "unfavorable" and 9 per cent had "no opinion."

Most of the persons who are critical of the high court are not familiar with the nuances of judicial opinions, but are generally unhappy nevertheless about the impact of the rulings on the life of the country. The feeling is that criminals are being let loose through technicalities and legal quibbles. The police in various cities often talk about this, and they tell their friends how hard it is to make arrests and get convictions — something which could act as a deterrent to crime.

The dissatisfaction with the Supreme Court can be summarized as follows:

1. Its rulings have revamped criminal law and procedures so that criminals have an easy time keeping out of jail.

2. The court has been digging into racial problems which many people have thought were not within its authority.

3. The court has ignored precedents in previous decisions, and has, according to the views of the critics, felt it has the power to "rewrite the Constitution." This has led to the charge that the Supreme court had become virtually a "third legislative body."

4. The court has not hesitated to decide many issues which previously had been considered either up to Congress or the states to deal with by law. The criticism is that the court has been legislating instead of deciding whether laws are valid under the Constitution.

5. The court has ruled on social problems which previously had been left up to the people themselves or to the state legislatures.

6. The court has failed to exercise what is often called "judicial restraint."

Most of the court rulings are too technical for the average person to grasp. But the lawyers who do study the court's opinions often comment informally on them to others. The impression therefore, is spreading that the Supreme Court has been usurping power which it was never intended to have.

Many members of Congress are convinced that there ought to be judicial reform and that Supreme Court justices should be required to retire at a certain age or else serve only for a fixed term of perhaps 20 years. It has been suggested, too, that appointments should be confirmed by both the House and the Senate, and also that a national panel of judges should be asked to make recommendations to the president on filling vacancies on the court.

There has been a good deal of discussion, too, about the outside activities of Supreme Court Justices. Some of them have actually made speeches which have political overtones. Others have felt justified in counseling the administration in power. The general feeling has been that a Supreme Court Justice should not, directly or indirectly, become involved in the activities of any other branch of government and should avoid public comment on controversial subjects related to the court's business.

Basically, criticism of the court is due to its alleged readiness to consider the rights of criminals as more important than the rights of the people who are the victims of criminal attack. Again and again, murderers have been released because of technicalities developed during the process of arrest. Some evidence which may have been obtained through "bugging" or tapping of telephones. Objectionable as these methods are, lots of people still feel that anyone who has committed murder or other serious crimes should be punished when found guilty.

It seems certain when there are vacancies in the court after the next president of the United States takes office, the public will insist upon knowing more about the nominee and especially the kind of opinions he has previously expressed on matters of "law and order."

U.S. Must Not Delude Itself On Vietnam foe's True Aims

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Many of us one time or another like to fool ourselves with words.

It's often a face-saving device which helps us give up or give in when we know we shouldn't.

Strangely enough, we sometimes attempt to fool ourselves even when an enemy is being bluntly straightforward about his aims.

We see this tendency today in the talk about the fighting "lull" in Vietnam. We saw it in World War II.

Hitler made no bones about his objectives. He outlined them in detail in "Mein Kampf"; he amplified them in his speeches. We have forgotten it now, but there were many Americans who could not, at the time, bring themselves to believe what he said about his movement.

In Asia in World War II, Mao Tse-tung made no secret of his communism and his totalitarian objectives.

Yet high-placed American officials insisted that the men in Yenan were agrarian reformers. Read the now-published State Department documents of that day and you will note with astonishment the emotional vigor with which some Department men insisted that this communism was merely a front behind which some very democratic people were hiding.

It is understood that Khrushchev's men used to joke among themselves about this American characteristic. They would compete among themselves to see who could think up the best label for whatever the Kremlin wanted to accomplish. The best label, of course, was the one which would be most acceptable to people in the United States and in countries allied with us.

Ho Chi Minh learned this tactic early in his career. Around the end of World War II, when other nationalist groups wouldn't ally themselves with his Communists (because he and his men had betrayed many of them to the French for execution), he set up a front which was the thinnest of covers for his Communists. Everyone knew at that time what Ho's front was, but they nevertheless accepted it in their councils. Ho's front then took over by assassination and boring from within.

In the past few weeks some Americans have insisted Ho has de-escalated the war. Ho's attacks have, on occasion, been less intense than during Tet and in the May offensive.

These Americans have argued that if President Johnson didn't immediately take advantage of these "lulls" to cancel all bombing in the north, the Communists would despair and attack.

Now, strangely enough, Hanoi never did say that it was responding to Johnson's limitation on northern bombing with a de-escalation of its own. Read carefully the reports which claim Hanoi hinted at reciprocity. You will find it a strain on your credibility to find a sign of any Hanoi claim that they were cutting back. On the contrary, Hanoi regularly has stated positively that it would not respond. Ho's men have insisted a U.S. bombing halt should be unilateral, with nothing given in return.

Certainly, some Hanoi man said Ho's military actions were politically significant. All Hanoi's loves — military and otherwise — are directed at political aims.

Certainly, on occasion, Hanoi has made no comment in response to questions on the meaning of the "lull." As one of Ho's former strategists has told this reporter: "If the Americans want to fool themselves, that's their problem."

Drew Pearson Says LBJ Assured Kremlin U.S. Would Not Interfere

WASHINGTON — The facts have been swept under a secrecy label, but President Johnson gave the Kremlin advance assurance that the U.S. would not interfere with any Soviet action against Czechoslovakia.

The President's purpose, ironically, was to forestall a Soviet move into Czechoslovakia by making clear that the U.S. had no military or political designs on the country.

The question came up when the liberal Dubcek government sounded out the U.S. about economic aid. Cautious word was sent back that the U.S. would consider providing financial help, but that this would not imply political or military support.

To allay Soviet suspicions over our dealings with Czechoslovakia, President Johnson relayed to the Kremlin the gist of what the U.S. had told the Dubcek government. In light of the Russians to believe they could move into Czechoslovakia without risk.

The invasion, incidentally, caught American military intelligence completely by surprise — despite an elaborate network of electronic listening devices which are supposed to monitor Soviet military moves.

The Pentagon was aware, of course, that Russia had several divisions poised on the Czech border. The Russian military maneuvers had been kept under close surveillance. But an estimated 330,000 troops, complete with tanks and planes, managed to slip into Czechoslovakia without immediate detection by the massive electronic monitoring equipment. The first word of the invasion came from an informant inside the Czech government and reached the White House scarcely two hours before the official Soviet notice.

The Pentagon was also shocked over the use of satellite troops in the invasion. It had been assumed that the Russians considered satellite soldiers too unreliable to use for anything except logistical support. Yet Poles, Hungarians, Bulgarians and East Germans participated in an invasion of a sister satellite with no apparent hesitation.

Campaign Standards
This column has found much to criticize in the conduct of Congress. It is only fair, therefore, to report changes for the better.

In the past, the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee has accepted campaign cash under the table from special interests seeking to influence legislation.

Bagmen for the oil companies, for instance, would slip money to the committee with instructions that it be passed out to Senators who had agreed to vote for the oil depletion allowance. The records of contributions were deliberately vague.

These practices were abruptly abandoned after Maine's ruggedly righteous Sen. Ed Muskie took over the chairmanship. He talked it over with Democratic Senators up for reelection, who agreed to take the high road in their campaigns.

He asked Washington attorney Berl Bernhard, who has a strong sense of ethics, to help keep the Democratic incumbents on the right side of the law. Then Muskie laid down stern ethical standards.

He insisted that every contribution must be identified and that every transaction must be made by check. He made certain even that the interest on the $650,000 which the committee had in the bank was properly recorded. He asked Bernhard whether the interest was taxable.

Back came a memo from the attorney assuring him: "Since it is the intention of the committee to use all of its funds for political campaigns and related purposes, rendering the contribution non-taxable, income in the form of interest from these gifts, if applied for campaign purposes, can be considered non-taxable."

Muskie's Ethics
Muskie also sought advice on how to handle contributors who insisted that their money be earmarked for their favorite Senators.

"Each contributor," suggested Bernhard, "should be asked to accept the concept that his contribution is received with the understanding that the committee recognizes the donor's preference, but is under no obligation to disburse the funds as requested."

This became the rule, and it was soon put to the test. The AFL-CIO submitted, along with a generous contribution, a list of eight Senators who should get the money. Muskie amiably refused to give any guarantee.

Another time, the Senators seeking reelection decided to spend a quiet weekend on Maryland's Eastern Shore mapping strategy. Someone offered to get a corporation to fly them to the shore in a private plane. Muskie flatly rejected the idea, and they all paid their own expenses.

He also decreed that contrary to past practice, each incumbent will get an equal share of the campaign kitty. It was Muskie's quiet renunciation for integrity, as much as anything else, that made him Vice President Humphrey's choice for a running mate.

Tougher Franco

Those who thought Spain's Dictator Franco was mellowing in his old age will have to revise their opinions.

He has reactivated the old suppression law, which gives him the power to impose the death penalty for any kind of political activity against him. His police have already arrested dissident priests in the Basque region.

However, they are being sentenced to prison, not executed.

Henry J. Taylor Says MacArthur's Inchon Landing

On September 16, 1950, against enormous odds, General Douglas MacArthur performed the incredible Inchon landing that routed the enemy from South Korea.

General Dwight D. Eisenhower once told me that he regarded Inchon as the most perfect military achievement in all modern military history by any commander at any time or place.

"An unmatched, absolute classic of planning, timing and execution that will live forever in military textbooks," said General Eisenhower.

It could also be reasonably stated that General MacArthur was the greatest combat general the world has ever seen. Consider the problem in World War II. War begins with terrain. Fighting with a thousand ships and achieving the landings in a Pacific expanse of 65 million square miles, no such terrain, no such sweep of oceans, no comparable start on the heart-breaking pathway to victory as was his from Pearl Harbor ever faced a commander and his outnumbered forces since the first awful day of war.

Robert Burns has the Scots say: "Let's do it or die." General MacArthur was a competent man.

For our Navy the actual turning point in the Pacific war came within six months after Pearl Harbor with the Battle of Midway on June 3-6, 1942. The entire U.S. Navy flashed with the competence of Admirals Chester W. Nimitz and William F. Halsey.

In Europe General Eisenhower listed to me, as being in the nature of MacArthur's Inchon achievement, General Omar Bradley's breakout of the German ring at St. Lo, France, and General George S. Patton's conquest of western Sicily.

Our Civil War was history's first war fought with the use of railroads and the telegraph. Great General Robert E. Lee made his strategy a classic, still reviewed in the general staff schools of the world, by the way he immediately, imaginatively and boldly revised the ageless fundamentals to grasp this revolutionary opportunity.

On May 2, 1863, great General Thomas J. (Stonewall) Jackson fell. Gettysburg was the first battle Lee ever had to fight without Jackson. It is generally conceded that with Jackson in the field Lee would have won it.

We think of Leonidas at Thermopylae, or Sobieski facing the Turks at the gates of Vienna, or Lord Dowling and the RAF fighter command in the Battle of Britain, or of General Eisenhower himself, who defeated the Germans within only 11 months after the Normandy landings.

We crossed the English Channel on June 6, 1944, with 176,000 men and 20,000 vehicles. And nothing is harder to mount, nothing depends so much on the commander's individual competence, nothing takes such precise coordination of navy and air units, nothing depends so capriciously on the weather and nothing is harder to try than an amphibious landing.

Sicily was the first amphibious operation attempted by any army since the ill-fated Gallipoli landing in Turkey by the British in 1915. "Sicily started to teach us what we must know to eventually cross the English Channel," General Eisenhower told me.

He also told me, on another occasion, "If I had listened to all of the advice I got during my command in Europe there never would have been a plan for crossing the Channel. In fact, I don't think we would have crossed the Atlantic Ocean."

Regarding the enemy, General Eisenhower pointed out that the Germans often made giant blunders when Hitler overruled his competent commanders. But, in addition to Marshal Erwin Rommel's early North African desert performance, there were equivalent classics hardly known to our public.

Stalingrad fell on January 31, 1943. Although the Germans had been thrown on the defensive by this and the Tunisian disasters, they remained far from defeated. Marshal Gerd von Rundstedt managed to seal off the immediate Russian penetration by switching no less than 19 divisions from France to Russia.

Along with this General von Liebenstein successfully evacuated the German forces nearly intact from the Sicilian defeat and likewise got them out of threatened Sardinia and Corsica. Both strategists gained General Eisenhower's unstinted credit for their achievements against enormous odds.

In peace or war this is still a world of men and decisions. The anniversary of General MacArthur's Inchon is a fitting reminder that there is no substitute for the individual. There is no substitute for competence.

thought were not within its authority.

3. The court has ignored precedents in previous decisions, and has, according to the views of the critics, felt it has the power to "rewrite the Constitution." This has led to the charge that the Supreme court had become virtually a "third legislative body."

4. The court has not hesitated to decide many issues which previously had been considered either up to Congress or the states to deal with by law. The criticism is that the court has been legislating instead of deciding whether laws are valid under the Constitution.

5. The court has ruled on social problems which previously had been left up to the people themselves or to the state legislatures.

6. The court has failed to exercise what is often called "judicial restraint."

Most of the court rulings are too technical for the average person to grasp. But the lawyers who do study the court's opinions often comment informally on them to others. The impression therefore, is spreading that the Supreme Court has been usurping power which it was never intended to have.

Many members of Congress are convinced that there ought to be judicial reform and that Supreme Court justices should be required to retire at a certain age or else serve only for a fixed term of perhaps 20 years. It has been suggested, too, that appointments should be confirmed by both the House and the Senate, and also that a national panel of judges should be asked to make recommendations to the president on filling vacancies on the court.

There has been a good deal of discussion, too, about the outside activities of Supreme Court Justices. Some of them have actually made speeches which had political overtones. Others have felt justified in counseling the administration in power. The general feeling has been that a Supreme Court Justice should not, directly or indirectly, become involved in the activities of any other branch of government and should avoid public comment on controversial subjects related to the court's business.

Basically, criticism of the court is due to its alleged readiness to consider the rights of criminals as more important than the rights of the people who are the victims of criminal attack. Again and again, murderers have been released because of technicalities developed during the process of arrest. Some evidence which may have been obtained through "bugging" or tapping of telephones. Objectionable as these methods are, lots of people still feel that anyone who has committed murder or other serious crimes should be punished when found guilty.

It seems certain when there are vacancies in the court after the next president of the United States takes office, the public will insist upon knowing more about the nominee and especially the kind of opinions he has previously expressed on matters of "law and order."

Drew Pearson Says LBJ Assured Kremlin U.S. Would Not Interfere

WASHINGTON — The facts have been swept under a secrecy label, but President Johnson gave the Kremlin advance assurance that the U.S. would not interfere with any Soviet action against Czechoslovakia.

The President's purpose, ironically, was to forestall a Soviet move into Czechoslovakia by making clear that the U.S. had no military or political designs on the country.

The question came up when the liberal Dubcek government sounded out the U.S. about economic aid. Cautious word was sent back that the U.S. would consider providing financial help, but that this would not imply political or military support.

To allay Soviet suspicions over our dealings with Czechoslovakia, President Johnson relayed to the Kremlin the gist of what the U.S. had told the Dubcek government. In light of the Russians to believe they could move into Czechoslovakia without risk.

The invasion, incidentally, caught American military intelligence completely by surprise — despite an elaborate network of electronic listening devices which are supposed to monitor Soviet military moves.

The Pentagon was aware, of course, that Russia had several divisions poised on the Czech border. The Russian military maneuvers had been kept under close surveillance.

But an estimated 330,000 troops, complete with tanks and planes, managed to slip into Czechoslovakia without immediate detection by the massive electronic monitoring equipment. The first word of the invasion came from an informant inside the Czech government and reached the White House scarcely two hours before the official Soviet notice.

The Pentagon was also shocked over the use of satellite troops in the invasion. It had been assumed that the Russians considered satellite soldiers too unreliable to use for anything except logistical support. Yet Poles, Hungarians, Bulgarians and East Germans participated in an invasion of a sister satellite with no apparent hesitation.

Campaign Standards
This column has found much to criticize in the conduct of Congress. It is only fair, therefore, to report changes for the better.

In the past, the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee has accepted campaign cash under the table from special interests seeking to influence legislation.

Bagmen for the oil companies, for instance, would slip money to the committee with instructions that it be passed out to Senators who had agreed to vote for the oil depletion allowance. The records of contributions were deliberately vague.

These practices were abruptly abandoned after Maine's ruggedly righteous Sen. Ed Muskie took over the chairmanship. He talked it over with Democratic Senators up for reelection, who agreed to take the high road in their campaigns.

He asked Washington attorney Berl Bernhard, who has a strong sense of ethics, to help keep the Democratic incumbents on the right side of the law. The Muskie laid down stern ethical standards.

He insisted that every contribution must be identified and that every transaction must be made by check. He made certain even that the interest on the $650,000 which the committee had in the bank was properly recorded. He asked Bernhard whether the interest was taxable.

Back came a memo from the attorney assuring him: "Since it is the intention of the committee to use all of its funds for political campaigns and related purposes, rendering the contribution non-taxable, income in the form of interest from these gifts, if applied for campaign purposes, can be considered non-taxable."

Muskie's Ethics
Muskie also sought advice on how to handle contributors who insisted that their money be earmarked for their favorite Senators.

"Each contributor," suggested Bernhard, "should be asked to accept the concept that his contribution is received with the understanding that the committee recognizes the donor's preference, but is under no obligation to disburse the funds as requested."

This became the rule, and it was soon put to the test. The AFL-CIO submitted, along with a generous contribution, a list of eight Senators who should get the money. Muskie amiably refused to give any guarantee.

Another time, the Senators seeking reelection decided to spend a quiet weekend on Maryland's Eastern Shore mapping strategy. Someone offered to get a corporation to fly them to the shore in a private plane. Muskie flatly rejected the idea, and they all paid their own expenses.

He also decreed that contrary to past practice, each incumbent will get an equal share of the campaign kitty.

It was Muskie's quiet reputation for integrity, as much as anything else, that made him Vice President Humphrey's choice for a running mate.

Tougher Franco
Those who thought Spain's Dictator Franco was mellowing in his old age will have to revise their opinions.

He has reactivated the old suppression law, which gives him the power to impose the death penalty for any kind of political activity against him. His police have already arrested dissident priests in the Basque region.

However, they are being sentenced to prison, not executed.

Henry J. Taylor Says MacArthur's Inchon Landing

On September 16, 1950, against enormous odds, General Douglas MacArthur performed the incredible Inchon landing that routed the enemy from South Korea.

General Dwight D. Eisenhower once told me that he regarded Inchon as the most perfect military achievement in all modern military history by any commander at any time or place.

"An unmatched, absolute classic of planning, timing and execution that will live forever in military textbooks," said General Eisenhower.

It could also be reasonably stated that General MacArthur was the greatest combat general the world has ever seen. Consider the problem in World War II. War begins with terrain. Fighting with a thousand ships and achieving the landings in a Pacific expanse of 65 million square miles, no such terrain, no such sweep of oceans, no comparable start on the heart-breaking pathway to victory as was his from Pearl Harbor ever faced a commander and his outnumbered forces since the first awful day of war.

Robert Burns has the Scots say: "Let's do it or die." General MacArthur was a competent man.

For our Navy the actual turning point in the Pacific war came within six months after Pearl Harbor with the Battle of Midway on June 3-6, 1942. The entire U.S. Navy flashed with the competence of Admirals Chester W. Nimitz and William F. Halsey.

In Europe General Eisenhower listed to me, as being in the nature of MacArthur's Inchon achievement, General Omar Bradley's breakout of the German ring at St. Lo, France, and General George S. Patton's conquest of western Sicily.

Our Civil War was history's first war fought with the use of railroads and the telegraph. Great General Robert E. Lee made his strategy a classic, still reviewed in the general staff schools of the world, by the way he immediately revised the ageless fundamentals to grasp this revolutionary opportunity.

On May 2, 1863, great General Thomas J. (Stonewall) Jackson fell. Gettysburg was the first battle Lee ever had to fight without Jackson. It is generally conceded that with Jackson in the field Lee would have won it.

We think of Leonidas at Thermopylae, or Sobieski facing the Turks at the gates of Vienna, or Lord Dowling and the RAF fighter command in the Battle of Britain, or of General Eisenhower himself, who defeated the Germans within only 11 months after the Normandy landings.

We crossed the English Channel on June 6, 1944, with 176,000 men and 20,000 vehicles. And nothing is harder to mount, nothing depends so much on the commander's individual competence, nothing takes such precise coordination of navy and air units, nothing depends so capriciously on the weather and nothing is harder to try than an amphibious landing.

Sicily was the first amphibious operation attempted by any army since the ill-fated Gallipoli landing in Turkey by the British in 1915. "Sicily started to teach us what we must know to eventually cross the English Channel," General Eisenhower told me.

He also told me, on another occasion, "If I had listened to all of the advice I got during my command in Europe there never would have been a plan for crossing the Channel. In fact, I don't think we would have crossed the Atlantic Ocean."

Regarding the enemy, General Eisenhower pointed out that the Germans often made giant blunders when Hitler overruled his competent commanders. But, in addition to Marshal Erwin Rommel's early North African desert performance, there were equivalent classics hardly known to our public.

Stalingrad fell on January 31, 1943. Although the Germans had been thrown on the defensive by this and the Tunisian disasters, they remained far from defeated. Marshal Gerd von Rundstedt managed to seal off the immediate Russian penetration by switching no less than 19 divisions from France to Russia.

Along with this General von Liebenstein successfully evacuated the German forces nearly intact from the Sicilian defeat and likewise got them out of threatened Sardinia and Corsica. Both strategists gained General Eisenhower's unstinted credit for their achievements against enormous odds.

In peace or war this is still a world of men and decisions. The anniversary of General MacArthur's Inchon is a fitting reminder that there is no substitute for the individual. There is no substitute for competence.

Ten and Twenty Years Ago

Sept. 17, 1948 — City telephone workers were asked to stay on the job following settlement of a pay dispute that resulted in an 11 cents an hour pay increase. The average wage in the industry was reported at $1.26 with the increase.

A new $40,000 7-Up bottling plant opened in Kingston on Chambers Street. The new plant is able to produce 2,000 bottles of the soft drink an hour.

Sept. 17, 1958 — The Kingston Common Council authorized a $244,500 bond issue to cover the cost of new fire equipment and four sewer projects.

A revote taken among Kingston Chamber of Commerce members showed they favored school consolidation by a 2 to 1 margin.

LBJ Keeping Options Open For Summit of Viet Allies

By SPENCER DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is keeping his options open for a summit meeting of the Vietnam war allies this fall, possibly in mid-October.

Diplomatic sources say there are strong hints the President would like to fulfill the promise of the last Honolulu communique for another summit meeting before the end of this year.

A speedup of preparations for the meeting could be quickly carried out once the decision is reached, sources said.

Johnson's last meeting with South Vietnam's leaders was in July at Honolulu.

Before that session White House aides had said that it was being held in keeping with a Johnson policy to hold a summit on the Vietnam war every six months.

One question puzzling the political experts here is the effect such a meeting would have on the presidential campaign of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey. U.S. officials see no likelihood Johnson will backtrack from the strong positions he took in two recent speeches when he said there would be no withdrawal of troops from the demilitarized zone that divides North and South Vietnam and indicated there would be no let-up in the limited bombing of the North.

According to one view, the question is how much would be gained in reassuring U.S. allies about the future course of American policy in the Far East and how much would be lost at home by such assurances.

At the same time, North Vietnam appears to be hardening its negotiating position in Paris, according to analysts here.

The demand that the United States recognize and negotiate with the National Liberation Front on matters dealing with the war in the South has been emphasized repeatedly in recent weeks by North Vietnam Premier Pham Van Dong and Nguyen Thanh Le, the politburo adviser at the Paris talks who is regarded here as a ranking official of the Hanoi government.

It is known to North Vietnam that the United States cannot accept the demand to negotiate separately with the NLF, political arm of the Viet Cong.

The standard U.S. position is to agree to talks with North Vietnam with the NLF represented at the negotiating table as part of the Hanoi team.

The United States also is insisting that the Saigon government be represented at the negotiating table if the preliminary meetings prepare the way for peace talks.

Policy Won't Help Bulk of Reservists

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The bulk of 37,000 reservists called to active duty early this year have no chance of benefiting soon from the Pentagon's new policy of returning them to civilian life as soon as possible.

More than 8,000 are in the Far East, mainly Vietnam, where they will have to complete their year's tour of duty. Another 20,000 are in the Army, which says its requirements have not changed and that it has no present plans to grant releases.

The Navy announced Monday that 600 naval air reservists would be released by Nov. 1. The only other Navy reservists called to active duty were 1,000 construction workers (seabees) who already are in Vietnam.

This leaves between 8,000 and 9,000 Air Force reservists who can be considered for early releases in the next few months. The Air Force's only statement so far is that it is "analyzing the most orderly method of effecting their release when operational commitments will permit."

Congressional sources said they were told that the Air Force tentatively plans to release reservists sent overseas when they return from active duty tours, presumably next spring.

Former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, who had bad experiences with calling reserves for the Berlin crisis in 1961, steadfastly refused during most of his tenure to call any civilians for the Vietnamese war.

As he was leaving office at the end of January, following the seizure of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo by North Korea, the first call of this war went out for 14,800 Air National Guard, Air Force Reserve and Naval Air Reserve members.

Another call, for 22,200 reserves, was issued in April. Except for two Air National Guard fighter squadrons deployed to South Korea, both forces have been considered mainly in the light of requirements for the Vietnamese war.

OPTIONS: The Onteora Board of Education, without valid reason, arbitrarily stands for and presses for a package-deal budget. It ignores our democratic right to decide what "extra" or nonmandated items of education and service we want to pay for. The Board practically rushed into a "contingency budget," after the first two budget defeats, without giving the taxpayers of the school district the opportunity to vote on any options, such as busing, extra-curricular activities, etc. Reject this third budget (the same as the defeated June 3rd, 1968, budget) by voting "NO"! Demand the right to vote on options!

BUSING: Three-quarters of the schoolchildren in our district must be and are already bused to school under the law. As to the other quarter, several hundred have been walking to school each year as a matter of choice. Why not decide on busing this quarter by option vote?

Nuclear Treaty Language Draws Criticism From Aiken

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. George Aiken, R-Vt., charged today that language in the nuclear non-proliferation treaty could provide a "multi-million dollar governmental subsidy to oil and gas producers."

He referred to article V of the pact, which would require the nuclear powers to make available to the non-nuclear signatories any of the technical devices developed for peaceful uses of atomic energy.

One such new technique already has been tested in New Mexico. Known as Project Gasbuggy, it involved stimulation of a natural gas field to greatly expand the amount of the fuel recoverable through present techniques.

Another which is being developed but not yet tested involves oil exploration techniques through the use of artificially induced seismicographic mappings of deep earth layers.

Aiken said he was not yet sure whether the new controversy over the already beleaguered treaty would prompt him to vote against it in a scheduled Senate Foreign Relations Committee session today or later on the Senate floor.

"It may be we have reached the point in history where we should subjugate such economic aspects to the political implications of a treaty like this one," he told United Press International.

"It is just that I think the people have a right to know what it is they're voting on. This not—as it has been billed—simply an international agreement to stop the spread of nuclear nations and promise not to rain bombs on each other's helpless women and children."

New Policies

"It is also a commitment to broad new economic and commercial policies, and this fact should be considered."

Aiken's stand could prove the final blow to hopes for Senate ratification during this session of the treaty, which has been signed by 81 nations and which was widely hailed at the time of its conclusion as a giant step toward peace and, possibly, ultimate mutual disarmament.

Almost no opposition to it existed when it was sent to the Senate last summer before the congressional recess for the national political conventions.

The Soviet-bloc invasion of Czechoslovakia, however, made some election-minded senators fearful of approving ratification at a time when it might be interpreted as part of an East-West detente.

Police in Poughkeepsie are still in a quandary as to the circumstances surrounding the stabbing of a 33 year old Kingston man now in St. Francis' Hospital in that city.

The man, identified only as Avan Holland, of 11 Gill Street, Kingston, is listed in "better condition," according to Poughkeepsie Police who today said "he's going to be all right."

Holland drove to the hospital shortly after midnight Thursday and was admitted with stab wounds in the chest and shoulder.

Police are apparently still unable to extensively question the man as to how he was stabbed, due to his condition.

Holland has been kept in the hospital's intensive care unit.

Ordinance will be similar to the ordinance adopted recently by the town of Ulster.

Near Emergency In Colonie Is Averted

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — A near emergency was averted early today when two valves leaking liquid propane from a Penn Central tanker car were shut off by railroad repairmen in suburban Colonie.

Penn Central officials diverted trains from the area for a short time.

Faces DWI Charge

Charles Banker, 50, of Suffern, was arrested at 12:40 a. m. today by State Trooper Peter Warnecke on a charge of driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated. Arraigned before Kingston Town Justice Robert Ferrigan, Banker received an adjournment until Oct. 9. Bail was fixed at $100. The arrest was made on the State Thursday in the Town of Ulster.

Two Arrests in City

Cornelius O'Neill, 35, whose address was listed by police as 46 Pine Grove Avenue, was arrested Monday on warrants charging him with failure to appear in court to face a charge of driving while drunk and violation of federal probation.

Kingston police also arrested Andrew Sorahan, 34, of Fleischmanns on a charge of harassment. Both cases were scheduled for City court.

Recorder Stolen

Robert Graves, principal of Port Ewen School reported to the County Sheriff's Department today that a Sandberg tape recorder valued at $200 to $300 was stolen from the school sometime during the weekend. There was no evidence of forced entry, according to Graves. County Investigator Harold T. Bowers is investigating.

More Federal Help for N.Y. Welfare Favored

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The federal government should do more to help New York State deal with its welfare problems, a legislative committee studying the state's welfare system said Sunday.

Sen. William E. Adams, R-Tonawanda, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee to Revise the Social Services Law, said recent hearings conducted by the committee led to that conclusion.

Poverty is largely a national responsibility, Adams said, and the state should press for federal action.

Among other steps, he said, the federal government should be asked to:

—Provide a national standard for income maintenance for welfare recipients, supported primarily by federal funds.

—Transfer the separate categories of help for the aged, blind, and disabled to a federal program for support, such as Social Security.

—Separate income maintenance from provision of social services.

Adams said the committee heard evidence of "some serious defects in the existing system, which must be corrected."

Witnesses called for a redefinition of welfare goals, he said, and told the committee that too much money was spent in administration rather than in provision of services.

Adams said some witnesses complained that paperwork and investigations consume 50 to 75 per cent of caseworkers' time. Others said there was no uniformity in the dispensing of welfare funds.

Police charged the students several times but failed to disperse them. The students came back each time singing the Communist "Internationale" and chanting "CRS-SS." This was a reference comparing France's CRS riot police with Nazi storm troopers.

Although there were actually no CRS (Compagnies Republiques de Securite) outside the school, students said the heavy contingent of police broke a government promise to withdraw security forces from the examination halls.

Fish Slates Kingston Visit

Hamilton Fish Jr., Republican candidate for Congress will spend the entire day in Kingston tomorrow visiting the urban renewal area downtown and touring the N. Y. Telephone Company and several banks between 9 and 4 p. m.

It is expected that he will be accompanied by several local officials and will have lunch with them at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Nuclear Treaty Language Draws Criticism From Aiken

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. George Aiken, R-Vt., charged today that language in the nuclear non-proliferation treaty could provide a "multi-million dollar governmental subsidy to oil and gas producers."

He referred to article V of the pact, which would require the nuclear powers to make available to the non-nuclear signatories any of the technical devices developed for peaceful uses of atomic energy.

One such new technique already has been tested in New Mexico. Known as Project Gasbuggy, it involved stimulation of a natural gas field to greatly expand the amount of the fuel recoverable through present techniques.

Another which is being developed but not yet tested involves oil exploration techniques through the use of artificially induced seismicographic mappings of deep earth layers.

Aiken said he was not yet sure whether the new controversy over the already beleaguered treaty would prompt him to vote against it in a scheduled Senate Foreign Relations Committee session today or later on the Senate floor.

Record Registration In Onteora District

An all-time high in Onteora School District voter registration has been attained with a recorded 4,114 registered, according to school officials.

The number is 1,331 more than recorded earlier in the year when voters went to the polls in May and June and defeated the school budget.

A third vote will come before the electorate Thursday between 2 and 9 p. m.

The number of new registrants, according to district is as follows: Shandaken, 207 for a total of 844; Olive, 300 for a total of 840; Woodstock, 456 for a total of 1,417 and Hurley, 368 new voters for a total of 1,013.

At a meeting of the Board of Education last night, it was decided to send a letter of appreciation to Commissioner of Education Dr. James E. Allen for his consideration in sending his assistant commissioner

"It may be we have reached the point in history where we should subjugate such economic aspects to the political implications of a treaty like this one," he told United Press International.

"It is just that I think the people have a right to know what it is they're voting on. This not—as it has been billed—simply an international agreement to stop the spread of nuclear nations and promise not to rain bombs on each other's helpless women and children."

New Policies "It is also a commitment to broad new economic and commercial policies, and this fact should be considered."

Aiken's stand could prove the final blow to hopes for Senate ratification during this session of the treaty, which has been signed by 81 nations and which was widely hailed at the time of its conclusion as a giant step toward peace and, possibly, ultimate mutual disarmament.

Almost no opposition to it existed when it was sent to the Senate last summer before the congressional recess for the national political conventions.

The Soviet-bloc invasion of Czechoslovakia, however, made some election-minded senators fearful of approving ratification at a time when it might be interpreted as part of an East-West detente.

Kingston Man Is Improved; Was Stabbed

Police in Poughkeepsie are still in a quandary as to the circumstances surrounding the stabbing of a 33 year old Kingston man now in St. Francis Hospital in that city.

The man, identified only as Avan Holland, of 11 Gill Street, Kingston, is listed in "better condition," according to Poughkeepsie Police who today said "he's going to be all right."

Holland drove to the hospital shortly after midnight Thursday and was admitted with stab wounds in the chest and shoulder.

Police are apparently still unable to extensively question the man as to how he was stabbed, due to his condition.

Holland has been kept in the hospital's intensive care unit.

O'Dwyer Group Meets Wednesday

Citizens for Paul O'Dwyer for U. S. Senator will meet at 61 Wurts Street at 8 p. m. Wednesday.

The meeting is being called by a non-partisan group which invites anyone interested to attend.

Refreshments will be served.

Committee Approves Abe Fortas

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The controversial nomination of Abe Fortas to be chief justice was approved 10 to 6, today by the Senate Judiciary Committee and sent to the floor. But its fate was uncertain because of a threatened filibuster.

Near Emergency In Colonie Is Averted

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — A near emergency was averted early today when two valves leaking liquid propane from a Penn Central tanker car were shut off by railroad repairmen in suburban Colonie.

Penn Central officials diverted trains from the area for a short time.

Faces DWI Charge

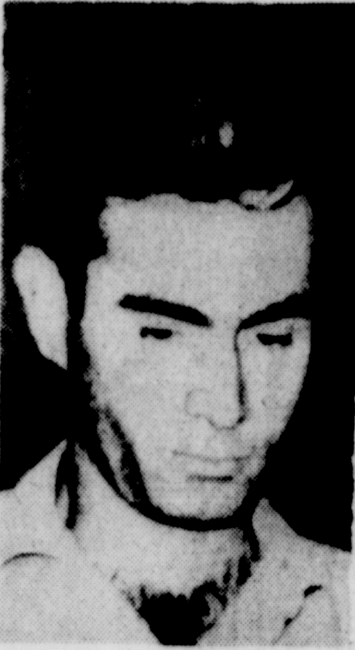

Charles Banker, 50, of Suffern, was arrested at 12:40 a. m. today by State Trooper Peter Warnecke on a charge of driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated. Arraigned before Kingston Town Justice Robert Ferrigan, Banker received an adjournment until Oct. 9. Bail was fixed at $100. The arrest was made on the State Thruway in the Town of Ulster.

Two Arrests in City

Cornelius O'Neill, 35, whose address was listed by police as 46 Pine Grove Avenue, was arrested Monday on warrants charging him with failure to appear in court to face a charge of driving while drunk and violation of federal probation. Kingston police also arrested Andrew Sorahan, 34, of Fleischmanns on a charge of harrasment. Both cases were scheduled for City court.

Recorder Stolen

Robert Graves, principal of Port Ewen School reported to the County Sheriff's Department today that a Sandberg tape recorder valued at $200 to $300 was stolen from the school sometime during the weekend. There was no evidence of forced entry, according to Graves. County Investigator Harold T. Bowers is investigating.

PLEADS GUILTY—Lee Roy Martin, the confessed "Gaffney strangler," pleaded guilty to two of the four strangulation slayings attributed to him in Gaffney, N. C., and was sentenced to a pair of life terms. The 33-year-old textile worker, a father of three children, changed his plea to guilty in the deaths of Mrs. Roger Dedmond and 15-year-old Opel Dianne Buckson. His capture in February ended 10 days of terror that left three women dead. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

More Federal Help for N.Y. Welfare Favored

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The federal government should do more to help New York State deal with its welfare problems, a legislative committee studying the state's welfare system said Sunday.

Sen. William E. Adams, R-Tonawanda, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee to Revise the Social Services Law, said recent hearings conducted by the committee led to that conclusion.

Poverty is largely a national responsibility, Adams said, and the state should press for federal action.

Among other steps, he said, the federal government should be asked to:

—Provide a national standard for income maintenance for welfare recipients, supported primarily by federal funds.

—Transfer the separate categories of help for the aged, blind, and disabled to a federal program for support, such as Social Security.

—Separate income maintenance from provision of social services.

Adams said the committee heard evidence of "some serious defects in the existing system, which must be corrected."

Witnesses called for a redefinition of welfare goals, he said, and told the committee that too much money was spent in administration rather than in provision of services.

Adams said some witnesses complained that paperwork and investigations consume 50 to 75 per cent of caseworkers' time. Others said there was no uniformity in the dispensing of welfare funds.

Police charged the students several times but failed to disperse them. The students came back each time singing the Communist "Internationale" and chanting "CRS-SS." This was a reference comparing France's CRS riot police with Nazi storm troopers.

Although there were actually no CRS (Compagnies Repubblicaines de Securite) outside the school, students said the heavy contingent of police broke a government promise to withdraw security forces from the examination halls.

Fish Slates Kingston Visit

Ulster Hearing on Town Ordinance

The second Town of Ulster office of Supervisor Thaddeus Musialkiewicz in the Post Office Building on Vincent Street. The third and final informational session is scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 24 in Spring Lake Firehouse.
More than 200 persons attended the first meeting Sept. 4 held at Lake Katrine Grange Hall. Copies of the proposed zoning law are available at the office of Supervisor Thaddeus Musialkiewicz in the Post Office Building on Vincent Street.
Under the proposal the Town of Ulster will be divided into seven districts with individual classifications as follows: R-1 one and two-family residential; R-G general residential; R-R rural residential; C-1 neighborhood business; C-2 general business; M-1 light industrial, and M-2 heavy industrial. The order of restrictiveness follows from the top classification.
The proposed law will cover street frontage requirements, rules for storing trailers and boats, objectionable industries, personal or secondary airports, gasoline filling stations, golf driving ranges, construction and operation of motels, truck terminals and transfer and storage points, radio, TV and other electronic transmission towers, and site plan approval.
There is also a section of non-conforming buildings and enforcement and the requirements of a certificate of occupancy.
The Zoning Board of Appeals under the ordinance consists of five members appointed by the Town Board.

Multimillion-Dollar Industry Is Developing Around the Sailplanes

NEW YORK (AP) — A multimillion-dollar industry is developing around a sport known as "soaring"—the sailing of the skies in a powerless, winged aircraft.

The government calls them gliders, but technically the correct word is sailplane—a ship aerodynamically efficient that can rise in gentle upcurrents of air.

Most sailplanes are towed aloft by powered aircraft and then released to soar with forward speed provided by the pull of gravity. The pilot seeks out updrafts in air currents to gain altitude. When conditions are right a pilot, with skillful maneuvering in air currents, can soar for hundreds of miles.

The popularity of the sport has escalated over the past few years.

"We estimate there are close to 8,000 active soaring pilots in the United States today, as compared with about 1,500 10 years ago," said Lloyd Licher of Santa Monica, Calif., executive secretary of the Soaring Society of America (SSA), the parent organization of a loose federation of soaring clubs across the country.

Until recently Schweizer Aircraft Corp. of Elmira, N. Y., was the exclusive manufacturer of completed sailplanes in this country.

Another sailplane manufacturing company, the Laister Sailplane Products Co., now has been established in Downey, Calif., and expects to have completed sailplanes ready for marketing in a few weeks. A company at Liberty, Mo., near Kansas City, is assembling sailplanes from parts shipped from England.

Several domestic companies produce sailplane kits which individuals use to assemble their own sailplanes. Licher said about a fourth of all sailplanes currently used were of the homemade variety, either from kits or user designs.

The average cost of a sailplane is $5,000 to $6,000, Licher said. A sailplane made from a kit would run about $1,000 less. Both factory assembled and home assembled sailplanes must meet Federal Aviation Agency safety standards before they can be licensed to fly.

Schweizer Aircraft was established in 1935 by the Schweizer brothers—Ernie, Paul and Will—who built their first sailplane while still in high school in gliders selling as Army surplus. Peekskill, N. Y. The company turned out gliders for the military during World War II, but subcontracting work for larger after the war, with so many aircraft firms.

NEW COPTERS—Two of the U. S. Army's new million-dollar AH-56A Cheyenne helicopters are shown during a test flight. The Army is planning to introduce this craft next year amid controversy over whether the flying gunship is worth its price. Army officials claim the AH-56A, carrying three times as much payload twice as fast and firing with much greater accuracy, will be eight times more effective than the AH-1G Cobra which is now being used in Vietnam.

The Million-Dollar Chopper—Controversy About Its Value

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army is preparing to introduce its first million-dollar helicopter next year amid some controversy over whether the new flying gunship is worth its price.

The Army's view is that the AH-56A Cheyenne, carrying three times as much payload twice as fast and firing with much greater accuracy, will be eight times more effective than the AH-1G Cobra which is now riding shotgun for helicopters in Vietnam.

It bases this formula on the expectation that the Cheyenne, while it will cost five or six times as much as the Cobra, should have a better chance for survival because of its speed and sophistication.

On the other hand, a projected fleet of 375 Cheyennes may cost in excess of $50 million, or more than $13 million each. That is more than half the price of the 1,400-mile-an-hour Phantom II fighter jet, which costs from $2 million to $2.4 million each depending on the version.

claiming that the cost of the Cheyenne program has skyrocketed and the end is not in sight, sought to delete from military appropriations the first $138 million in a four-year plan for its production. His amendment was defeated 121 to 47.

The first production models are scheduled for delivery in September, 1969, and the fleet is to be completed by 1973. Gen. William C. Westmoreland, Army chief of staff, is known to feel that the full program is vital to the future of the ground forces.

The two-man Cheyenne is the first helicopter to be designed from the ground up as a gunship. A swiveling belly "turret" contains a 30mm automatic gun, while the nose turret can accommodate either a grenade launcher or a 7.62mm minigun capable for firing 6,000 rounds a minute.

To improve its stability and also provide a rack for weapons, the Cheyenne has been given stubby wings with six pylons from which 2.75-inch rockets and tube-launched, wire guided missiles can be hung.

Its speed comes partly from a

10-foot pusher propeller installed in the tail behind its four-bladed, fifty-foot rotor. It is designed to fly at 250 m.p.h. and an experimental model has already been clocked in a record run at 302 m.p.h.

All this is coupled with an ability to rise to safe altitude in a matter of seconds, to stop and maneuver suddenly, to hover and to land and refuel anywhere. It has a laser range finder, and by getting a fix on both targets and guns could direct artillery fire using only its own instruments.

As to whether helicopters can continue to survive in combat theaters, the Army believes that the choppers have compiled a good record in Vietnam and will have an excellent chance against improvements such as the long-expected enemy introduction of shoulder-fired, heat-seeking antiaircraft missiles.

The record for Vietnam shows the Army has lost 430 helicopters to ground fire in the course of more than 12 million flights averaging 20 minutes each since the beginning of 1962. That is about one helicopter lost for each 28,000 flights.

Spain's Negotiations With U.S. Strengthened by Soviet Action

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News News Analyst

Spanish Foreign Minister Fernando Maria Castiella began negotiations in Washington this week for renewal of the U.S.-Spanish military bases agreement with a new trump card in his hand.

This was the Soviet military occupation of Czechoslovakia which added more than a dozen Communist army divisions to the lineup against the Western NATO nations and, according to some military analysts, changed the balance of power in Europe.

With the continuing refusal of the French to participate in the military side of the Atlantic alliance and with the disturbing increase of Soviet naval might in the Mediterranean, events in Czechoslovakia added significant strength to the Spanish bargaining position.

Specifically, the Washington negotiations deal with renewal of a 10-year treaty signed by the two nations Sept. 26, 1953, and renewed for another five years in 1963.

The treaty gave the United States the right to share air forces bases at Torrejon, near Madrid, and Moron, near Seville, and the Navy base at Rota, near Cadiz.

With the development of the intercontinental ballistic missile, the air bases are considered conveniences, primarily of use to the air tankers which refuel American bombers on international patrol. Presumably, they could be eliminated without too much loss.

Rota, however, is the key base to supply, refit and service U.S. Polaris submarines in the Atlantic and the Mediterranean. More than a year ago Spain indicated she was raising the price tag.

While never officially announced, these are said to be Spain's chief demands:

An increase from $50 million to $1 billion in military aid over the next five years. She wants to modernize her army, navy and air force, including F4 Phantom jets, a second Hawk antiaircraft missile battalion and radar picket ships.

U.S. support in the increasingly bitter dispute between Britain and Spain over Gibraltar. Early this year, Spain warned the United States the U.S. Sixth Fleet would lose its hospitality privileges at Spanish Mediterranean ports if it continued to use Gibraltar as a port of call.

Truck Driver Pays Two Fines

A routine traffic check on the State Thruway in the Town of Ulster on Monday resulted in the arrest of a South Carolina truck driver on charges of illegal possession of a firearm and a violation of State Labor Law—having no log book on the vehicle.

Trooper J. D. Devine of Troop T booked James Shannon Holly Sr., of Charleston. Arraigned later before Ulster Town Justice Arthur A. Reilly, Holly pleaded guilty to both charges. He was fined $25 for the weapons violation and $10 for the other count.

Trooper Devine reportedly found a .38 caliber revolver on the truck Holly was operating.

Multimillion-Dollar Industry Is Developing Around the Sailplanes

NEW YORK (AP) — A multimillion-dollar industry is developing around a sport known as "soaring"—the sailing of gliders in a powerless, winged aircraft.

The government calls them gliders, but technically the correct word is sailplane—a ship so aerodynamically efficient that it can rise in gentle upcurrents of air.

Most sailplanes are towed aloft by powered aircraft and then released to soar with forward speed provided by the pull of gravity. The pilot seeks out updrafts in air currents to gain altitude. When conditions are right a pilot, with skillful maneuvering in air currents, can soar for hundreds of miles.

The popularity of the sport has escalated over the past few years.

"We estimate there are close to 8,000 active soaring pilots in the United States today, as compared with about 1,500 10 years ago," said Lloyd Licher of Santa Monica, Calif., executive secretary of the Soaring Society of America (SSA), the parent organization of a loose federation of soaring clubs across the country. Until recently Schweizer Aircraft Corp. of Elmira, N. Y., was the exclusive manufacturer of completed sailplanes in this country.

Another sailplane manufacturing company the Laister Sailplane Products Co., now has been established in Downey, Calif., and expects to have completed sailplanes ready for marketing in a few weeks. A company at Liberty, Mo., near Kansas City, is assembling sailplanes from parts shipped from England.

Several domestic companies produce sailplane kits which individuals use to assemble their own sailplanes. Licher said about a fourth of all sailplanes currently used were of the homemade variety, either from kits or user designs.

The average cost of a sailplane is $5,000 to $6,000, Licher said. A sailplane made from a kit would run about $1,000 less.

Both factory assembled and home assembled sailplanes must meet Federal Aviation Agency safety standards before they can be licensed to fly.

Schweizer Aircraft was established in 1935 by the Schweizer brothers—Ernie, Paul and Will—who built their first sailplane while still in high school in gliders selling as Army surplus. Peekskill, N. Y. The company turned out gliders for the military during World War II, but subcontracting work for larger after the war, with so many aircraft firms.

NEW COPTERS—Two of the U. S. Army's new million-dollar AH-56A Cheyenne helicopters are shown during a test flight. The Army is planning to introduce this craft next year amid controversy over whether the flying gunship is worth its price. Army officials claim the AH-56A, carrying three times as much payload twice as fast and firing with much greater accuracy, will be eight times more effective than the AH-1G Cobra which is now being used in Vietnam.

The Million-Dollar Chopper—Controversy About Its Value

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army is preparing to introduce its first million-dollar helicopter next year amid some controversy over whether the new flying gunship is worth its price.

The Army's view is that the AH-56A Cheyenne, carrying three times as much payload twice as fast and firing with much greater accuracy, will be eight times more effective than the AH-1G Cobra which is now riding shotgun for helicopters in Vietnam.

It bases this formula on the expectation that the Cheyenne, while it will cost five or six times as much as the Cobra, should have a better chance for survival because of its speed and sophistication.

On the other hand, a projected fleet of 375 Cheyennes may cost in excess of $50 million, or more than $1.3 million each. That is more than half the price of the 1,400-mile-an-hour Phantom II fighter jet, which costs from $2 million to $2.4 million each depending on the version.

claiming that the cost of the Cheyenne program has skyrocketed and the end is not in sight, sought to delete from military appropriations the first $138 million in a four-year plan for its production. His amendment was defeated 121 to 47.

The first production models are scheduled for delivery in September, 1969, and the fleet is to be completed by 1973. Gen. William C. Westmoreland, Army chief of staff, is known to feel that the full program is vital to the future of the ground forces.

The two-man Cheyenne is the first helicopter to be designed from the ground up as a gunship. A swiveling belly "turret" contains a 30mm automatic gun, while the nose turret can accommodate either a grenade launcher or a 7.62mm minigun capable for firing 6,000 rounds a minute.

To improve its stability and also provide a rack for weapons, the Cheyenne has been given stubby wings with six pylons from which 2.75-inch rockets and tube-launched, wire-guided missiles can be hung.

Its speed comes partly from a

10-foot pusher propeller installed in the tail behind its four-bladed, fifty-foot rotor. It is designed to fly at 250 m.p.h. and an experimental model has already been clocked in a record run at 302 m.p.h.

All this is coupled with an ability to rise to safe altitude in a matter of seconds, to stop and maneuver suddenly, to hover and to land and refuel anywhere. It has a laser range finder, and by getting a fix on both targets and guns could direct artillery fire using only its own instruments.

As to whether helicopters can continue to survive in combat theaters, the Army believes that the choppers have compiled a good record in Vietnam and will have an excellent chance against improvements such as the long-expected enemy introduction of shoulder-fired, heat-seeking antiaircraft missiles.

The record for Vietnam shows the Army has lost 420 helicopters to ground fire in the course of more than 12 million flights averaging 20 minutes each since the beginning of 1962. That is about one helicopter lost for each 28,000 flights.

Spain's Negotiations With U.S. Strengthened by Soviet Action

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Service Analyst

Spanish Foreign Minister Fernando Maria Castiella began negotiations in Washington this week for renewal of the U.S.-Spanish military bases agreement with a new trump card in his hand.

This was the Soviet military occupation of Czechoslovakia which added more than a dozen Communist army divisions to the lineup against the Western NATO nations and, according to some military analysts, changed the balance of power in Europe.

With the continuing refusal of the French to participate in the military side of the Atlantic alliance and with the disturbing increase of Soviet naval might in the Mediterranean, events in Czechoslovakia added significant strength to the Spanish bargaining position.

Specifically, the Washington negotiations deal with renewal of a 10-year treaty signed by the two nations Sept. 26, 1953, and renewed for another five years in 1963.

The treaty gave the United States the right to share air forces bases at Torrejon, near Madrid, and Moron, near Seville, and the Navy base at Rota, near Cadiz.

With the development of the intercontinental ballistic missile, the air bases are considered conveniences, primarily of use to the air tankers which refuel American bombers on international patrol. Presumably, they could be eliminated without too much loss.

Rota, however, is the key base to supply, refit and service U.S. Polaris submarines in the Atlantic and the Mediterranean.

Fish Seeking Military Aid For Israel

Hamilton Fish, speaking before the Men's Club of Temple Emmanuel in Kingston yesterday, called for United States military aid for Israel to maintain a balance of power in the Middle East. Fish is the Republican candidate for Congress. He returned from Israel last week.

"So long as Soviet arms cannot be kept out of the Middle East," said Fish, "Europe and America must quietly see to it that Israel receives the arms she needs to maintain a balance of power. We should constantly strive for agreements with the Soviet Union which would halt the flow of outside arms into the Middle East. Until an agreement is reached, we must supply Israel with military aid." Fish continued, "Because Israel's ability to defend herself must be preserved for America's security and the cause of peace, I back Republican presidential candidate Nixon's statement favoring the shipment of 50 Phantom jets to the Israelis."

Columbiettes Resume Fall-Winter Schedule

Mrs. Joseph Bruno, president of Columbiettes, Kingston Council 275, Knights of Columbus, presided at the September 9th meeting of the organization during which summer activities were reviewed.

It was concluded that Kitchen Concessions each Wednesday evening in the K of C building were successful.

Other activities included providing birthday cakes for patients at the Ulster County Infirmary during the month of July; making Johnny coats, bed pads and comfort pillows under the direction of Mrs. Frank Tiano for the Ulster County Infirmary and Annex; assisting the Knights with their annual picnic; and participating in a pilgrimage to Auriesville on September 8.

Mrs. Rita Senor has accepted chairmanship of an upcoming candy sale and Mrs. Sue Ahl will serve as chairman of arrangements for the annual communion and breakfast in October.

It was announced also that a Memorial Mass for deceased members will be celebrated on November 9 at 9:30 a.m. in St. Joseph's Church.

A penny social will be held in the K of C building on November 2 with Mrs. Rita Chase as chairman and Mrs. Rose DiPeri as co-chairman. Members are asked to donate items for the food basket. These may be left at the homes of Rita Chase, Laura Albrecht or Mary Bruno.

Donna Osterhoudt Weds Robert Schaper

Miss Donna Eleanor Osterhoudt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Osterhoudt, 709 West King Street, Martinsburg, W. Va., became the bride of Robert A. Schaper, 139 Cadman Avenue, Babylon, L. I., N. Y., on Sunday, Sept. 1, 1968 in the Trinity Lutheran Church in Kingston. Miss Osterhoudt is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Waterman of 164 Lucas Avenue, this city.

Vases of white gladioli and altar candles decorated the altar for the double ring ceremony at 2 p.m. which was performed by the Rev. John Vannorsdall, chaplain at Gettysburg College, Gettysburg, Pa.

James Reaser, church organist, presented a program of wedding selections prior to the ceremony, and played Purcell's "Trumpet Voluntary" for the processional and "Trumpet Tune" as the recessional.

Given in marriage by her parents, Miss Osterhoudt was escorted to the altar by her father. She wore a white dotted Swiss floor length gown, which was fashioned and sewn by her sister. It featured a rounded neckline and cap sleeves accented by a ruffle of white dacron down the front of the gown. Her veil of white illusion was centered by a rosette ruffle and edged in Valenciennes lace. The bridal veil and the bridesmaids' headpieces were made by the bride's mother. The bride carried a cascade of white sweetheart roses, Marguerite daisies and ivy.

Miss Cathy Osterhoudt, sister of the bride was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Linda Brown of Martinsburg, W. Va., and Miss Bonnie Mussel, Pompton Lakes, N. J., classmates of the bride. Miss Robin Schaper and Miss Heidi Schaper, sisters of the bridegroom were junior bridesmaids. Miss Osterhoudt's gown was lime green dotted Swiss and the bridesmaids were in lemon yellow dotted Swiss with matching headpieces. They carried old-fashioned bouquets of white sweetheart roses, daisies and ivy.

Richard Schaper, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Ronald Schaper, also a brother, and Jesse Osterhoudt, brother of the bride. Howard Cepelak, Mike Hobor and Glen Davidson, college friends of the bridegroom, also served as ushers.

A buffet luncheon was served at the reception at The Alpine for guests from West Virginia, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Connecticut, Idaho, Catskill and Kingston.

The bride and bridegroom are seniors at Gettysburg College and will be at home at 231 Hanover Street, Gettysburg, Pa.

The bridegroom's parents entertained on Saturday evening, prior to the wedding, at a rehearsal dinner in the Blue Room of the Hotel Kirkland.

Will Spotlight Space Program For Trained Nurses

There is more to the United States Space Program than a man on the moon. Radio listeners will have the opportunity to learn something about a little-publicized but important part of space science research when the District Nurses Association program is on the air over WGHQ FM Saturday, Sept. 21 after the 10 a.m. news.

In a ten-minute phone interview, Major Dorothy R. Novotny of the U.S. Air Force Nurse Corps, one of four nurses to complete the Aerospace Nurse course, will explain the application of both familiar nursing duties and unique responsibilities for the nurse in the Bio-astronautic Operational Support Unit at Patrick Air Force Base in Florida.

Major Novotny received her diploma in nursing from the Youngstown Hospital Association School of Nursing and has her B.S. degree in nursing from the University of Omaha.

District No. 11 of the New York State Nurses Association is the organization for professional nurses in Ulster and Greene counties. Working on the committee are Miss Kathryn L. Heavey, Mrs. Earl Ostrander, Miss Evaline Mayhan, Mrs. Albert Spada.

Y-WIVES RESUME MEETINGS—Committee chairmen for Y-Wives Club, discuss upcoming programming for the fall and winter season. Activities will begin with a covered dish supper on September 19, in the YWCA, 209 Clinton Avenue, at 7:30 p.m. Guest speaker will be Jim Tyrell. Hospital Auxiliary Opens Season

Fifty members of Ellenville Community Hospital Auxiliary organization are requested to attend the first meeting of the season on Monday afternoon, Sept. 9 at the hospital.

In action taken at the meeting, the regularly scheduled June meeting of the organization was changed to provide for a meeting in October. Accordingly, the hospital service group will meet on Tuesday, Oct. 15, at 8 p.m., at the hospital.

The October 15 meeting will be devoted to a program of educational nature, the subject of which will be announced at a later date. Members of the volunteer services, Irene Friedman, or auxiliary president, Connie Feldshuh.

Ellenville Community Hospital will hold its annual $100 couple dinner on Sunday, Nov. 24, 1968, at the Homowack Lodge, Spring Glen, it was announced this week by Benjamin Lonstein, president of the hospital auxiliary.

During the summer, among community non-profit health care institutions, Louis Resnick effort. It was also announced there are openings for a large number of in-hospital volunteer teams. Those who are interested are: Dave Swinden, Arthur Chipp, Harriet Breslow, Irving Esrig, Irving Binder and Harry Rieger.

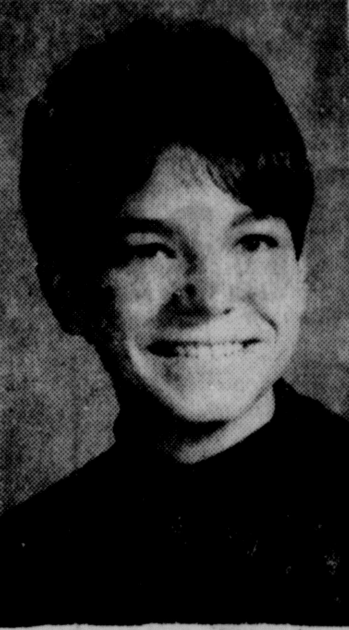

DAR Spotlights Constitution Week

Wiltwyck Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, calls to the attention of citizens of Kingston the following quotation published by the Department of Justice some years ago:

"In 1955, the National Society Daughter of the American Revolution originated the idea of devoting an entire week to the Constitution by extending the period of observance beyond the one day of Sept. 17. The outstanding success of this undertaking led to the approval by Congress of a joint resolution authorizing the designation by the President of "Constitution Week," beginning Sept. 17 of each year. It is a period of thoughtful study and consideration of the events that led to the framing of the Constitution, and of the means for preserving it from those who would destroy or weaken it."

Macauley, the noted English historian who died in 1839, wrote regarding the United States, "Your Republic will be pillaged and ravaged in the Twentieth Century just as the Roman Empire was by barbarians of the Fifth Century, with this difference, that the devastation of the Roman Empire came from abroad, while your barbarians will be people of your own country and the products of your own institutions."

"Let us put forth every effort to make this 1968 celebration of Constitution Week such that it will focus attention on the fact that our cherished freedoms are due to and guaranteed by the Constitution as originally written. As we face the critical National Election period, we must endeavor to keep, one Country, one Constitution, one Destiny," a DAR release concludes.

GOP Women List Plans for Fall

The hallmark of the national Republican convention, held in Miami Beach in August, was the law and order issue or order with justice, according to H. Clark Bell, Republican candidate for member of Assembly from the 99th Assembly District of New York State, speaking before a meeting of the Ulster County Republican Women's Club held at the Governor Clinton Hotel recently. This, Mr. Bell felt, was a brave and proper course for all Republican candidates to follow. Mr. Bell noted that the emotions created by Mr. Nixon's acceptance speech were shown unashamedly by all those in the Convention Hall.

Mrs. Raymond LeFever, vice chairman of the Ulster County Republican Committee, also a guest speaker at the meeting, was impressed by the tight security set-up and the manner in which R. J. Bliss, chairman of the National Republican Party had organized the procedures of the convention.

"Even after the loss of Favorite Son Candidates, the unity of State Delegations for all out Victory in 1968, was most impressive," stated Mrs. LeFever.

Mrs. William A. Krum reported a card party will be sponsored by the club on Oct. 17 at 8 p.m. in the Elks Club on Fair Street, Kingston. Mrs. Krum and Mrs. C. John Bechtold, co-chairmen announced the following members of the club as their committee: Mrs. August Parker, Mrs. Monroe Longenryke, Mrs. Thomas Hanrahan, Mrs. Raymond LeFever, Miss Cordelia Feldman, Mrs. Evelyn Dolson and Mrs. Arthur Barnes. Hostesses for the evening will be wives of the Republican candidates for county offices.

Mrs. Frederick Stang, club president, announced the opening of Republican headquarters on Broadway next to Myers Electric Company, Friday evening at 7:30 p.m., Sept. 20. Members of the club who are manning headquarters for the 1968 political campaign are Mrs. LeeRoy Crosswell, Mrs. Minnie Stegmayer and Mrs. Albert Kurdt. Refreshments will be served.

Next meeting of the Ulster County Republican Women's Club will be held in Room 53 of the Governor Clinton Hotel at 8 p.m. on Sept. 26.

Ulster Referendum Sept. 30 On $300,000 Town Office

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN
A referendum on the Town of Ulster's proposed $300,000 town office building complex with highway department garage has been scheduled for Monday, Sept. 30, at the Town Highway Garage, Albany Avenue Extension, next to Ulster Hose Company No. 5 firehouse. Balloting will be from 12 noon to 8 p. m.

All qualified voters who are owners of property in the Town of Ulster, assessed on the latest completed assessment roll, are eligible to vote in this special election.

The time and place of the referendum set by the Town Board was announced today by Supervisor Thaddeus Musialkiewicz.

Bond Issue Financing

In presentations at an informational meeting July 25, and at a public hearing Aug. 13, it has been determined that the project to be financed by bond issue would be amortized over a 30-year period, and would add $1.73 per $1,000 of assessed valuation to the town tax rate. The study of the projects notes that the elimination of the cost of the present operation in makeshift, leased and rented buildings could reduce the tax rate addition to $1 per $1,000.

The proposed 56 by 129 foot town hall and 65 by 200 foot town garage would be constructed on town property along Neighborhood Road, Lake Katrine, near Route 209. The town hall would be of block and brick veneer construction with 6,248 square feet of space on the main floor at an estimated cost of $124,960. The basement would have 2,184 square feet of space with vault and storage room, and is listed to cost $17,472.

The town highway garage, also block and brick veneer, will be 13,000 square feet plus a storage area, and will cost $104,000. The office building complex will permit consolidation of all township administration and operations at one site and according to Supervisor Musialkiewicz will provide a substantial savings. The new facility will provide for the consolidation of storage of all town records in fireproof vaults. The proposed town garage will permit the housing of all town Highway Department equipment, some of which has been stored outside in all kinds of weather, due to lack of adequate facilities.

The new facility, according to the supervisor, will provide large storage rooms for records and voting machines, a vault for vital statistics, deeds and other records; a town clerk's office and reception room, offices for town tax collector, supervisor, planning board, building inspector, town

Ford to Speak At Dutchess GOP Picnic

House minority leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan will be the guest speaker at the Dutchess County Young Republican Club's annual clambake this Saturday at the Elks Picnic Grounds, Skidmore Road, LaGrange.

Congressman Ford, permanent chairman of the recent Republican National Convention at Miami, Fla., will present his views on the forthcoming election.

Prior to his appearance at the clambake he will hold a press conference at the Dutchess County Republican Campaign Headquarters, 290 Main Street, Poughkeepsie.

justices, assessors, water department, and a spare office for future expansion.

There will also be a large meeting room and justice court, lavatories and supply room, and a parking lot to accommodate 90 vehicles.

The Highway Department garage will have 20 stalls for rolling equipment, workshop, tool room, employees room and shower, and superintendent's office. The garage would be constructed on the same property some distance to the right of the proposed town hall.

Brochure Available

A brochure on the proposal with all facts and figures has been printed and copies are available at the supervisor's office in the town of Ulster Post Office Building, 35 Vincent Street. There are also a series of photographs on display showing the existing facilities and indicating the handicaps town employees must overcome to operate town business.

The Ulster supervisor in explaining the financing of the project said bond anticipation notes would be issued to cover the costs as the construction proceeded and when completed the 30-year bond issue would be negotiated to cover only the actual cost, the money actually spent on the project.

Supervisor Musialkiewicz said Ulster is the third largest township in the county and a leader in the progress in the county. The 1966 special census recorded a population of 10,134 in comparison to the 1960 count of 8,448.

He noted that the present cost of operation, maintenance, rentals and storage is approximately $8,000 per year. The proposed town hall and town garage would enhance the town's position and would be commensurate with the population, economy and forward look of the township, he said.

Basic Education Plan For Adults Scheduled

Adults in Kingston and the surrounding area who lack a basic education can now avail themselves of this opportunity through a program to be offered beginning Sept. 26.

Tiny Turtle Coloring Fun Contest Starts

Tiny Turtle fans nine years old and under will be offered a second opportunity to compete in Coloring Fun contest sponsored by the Kingston Savings Bank beginning Saturday, Sept. 21. The first such contest which ended last May, attracted 868 entries.

The bank will display 10 selected coloring contest entries in its Wall Street lobby each week for five weeks. Each child whose work is picked for exhibit will receive a free container of crayons from the bank. Only one set of crayons will be awarded to any one child.

Three grand prize winners will be chosen by a panel of judges at the end of five weeks. The three winners will receive a savings account at Kingston Savings Bank. First prize in the contest is $15; second $10 and third $5. If a winner already has a savings account at Kingston Savings Bank, a like amount will be added to his account.

The program, funded by the federal government and now in its fourth year, will be held at the John F. Kennedy School, Gross Street, Kingston. Classes will be held every Monday and Thursday throughout the school year from 7 to 10 p.m.

Adults who have not availed themselves of at least on eighth grade education for various reasons now will be able to sharpen their skills in reading and arithmetic to a point where they may qualify for the New York State High School Equivalency Diploma as a result of the course at the Kennedy School.

However, the most satisfying part of the program to adults who have been away from school for a time is the growth of their vocabulary and an ability to discover more pleasure and knowledge from better reading skills.

A special appeal is also made to adults who have recently entered the United States. This program may also assist them in hastening their speaking and reading English vocabulary.

All interested adults may register at the John F. Kennedy School on Thursday evening, Sept. 26 at 7 p.m. Registration will also be accepted at every class meeting throughout the year on Monday and Thursdays.

Jacob A. Nolfo, coordinator of the basic education program, urges all interested persons to contact the John F. Kennedy School for further information.

Resnick to Open Ellenville Business

By CHARLES BERMPOHL

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick is going back into business in Ellenville.

The second-term Democratic congressman, scheduled to leave the U. S. House of Representatives on Jan. 3, 1969, will establish a bottling cap industry in an area known as Oak Ridge.

The new company, to be called Clo-Tron Industries, is located to the west of the Wawarsing population center, up the winding road of a mountain, at the site of the original Resnick homestead.

Clo-Tron will make aluminum, plastic, and cork bottle caps, and, at the outset, will employ about 30 to 40 area residents.

Also in the works, is the establishing of private employment agencies and training schools specifically for minority groups.

Resnick told The Freeman, in an exclusive interview, that he is presently "working on acquiring and founding other companies," relative to the training school scheme, "within the next 30 days."

Also in line with the plan, the Ellenville Democrat further said that is purchasing a machinery company in the area and a research and development company in Connecticut.

Makes Plastics

The development company is presently engaged in the making of plastics and plastic processing equipment.

As for Clo-Tron, the congressman has purchased Arco Crown Cap and Seal, Inc. in Cohoes. The company makes bottle caps and workers are currently dismantling the machinery in the Cohoes plant to be shipped to the Oak Ridge site within the week.

The Oak Ridge plant, abandoned for several years, has about 35,000 square feet of factory floor space.

On the property also is a storage building, formerly a giant two-story chicken coop, which contains "a couple of thousand square feet" of space, according to Resnick, and a laboratory which will be used in research and development for the Clo-Tron operation.

Included on the 80-acre original Resnick farm site, along with a small two-vehicle garage and a house trailer which serves as the living quarters for a caretaker, is a tiny one room cabin which was the Resnick home after a fire claimed the first home about 50 years ago.

Resnick recalled that his mother and father, along with five children, three brothers and two sisters lived in the small cabin for a winter until another house could be built.

Family Historic Center

The homestead can be seen as a historic center for the family. It was at the site that the father, Morris Resnick, first established a home for the family.

Having just arrived from Europe, he received financial aid from the Hebrew Agricultural Society, an organization which helped Jewish immigrants who wanted to get into farming.

The father grew stringbeans, cabbage, spinach and cauliflower on the land and, later, he became a chicken farmer, which accounts for what will now be the Clo-Tron storage building.

It was at this site, which overlooks the valley and the village of Ellenville, where young Joe Resnick first tested the antenna which eventually led to the multi-million dollar Channel Master corporation.

Later, the man who was to become the first Democratic congressman in the 28th Congressional District in living memory, started the Dynafarm Research and Development Corp. at the site.

The firm made plastic and polystyrene foam used in drinking cups.

In 1961, the three buildings of the Dynafarm operation were rented out to a New York City firm but, in 1962, Joe Resnick went back into business, got back the buildings, and established Questron, which manufactured plastic processing machinery.

At one time, the Questron plant employed as many as 115 people.

Resnick sold out his interest in Questron to his partner, William Jacobs, in 1965, when the Democrat made the trip to Washington, D. C.

Not long after Resnick's first term as a congressman, Jacobs left the business and the plant and former farmlands were abandoned.

The plant's main building branches out from the third Resnick homestead.

The home said Resnick, was "30 feet by 30 feet by 30 feet," a perfect cube two stories high.

The "perfect cube" will now serve as Resnick's executive offices.

The plant will be divided into three sections, for the aluminum, plastic and cork bottling processes.

The aluminum capping section will be "mainly a punch press operation," the plastic caps will be made by "injection molding machines," and the cork, which will be shipped from Portugal, will be basically "an assembly operation" with the caps fitted with plastic or wood tops.

As for politics, Resnick said, "I'll always be interested in politics but I don't think I'll ever run for elective office again."

Resting against the side of a wall of the chicken coop-storage building are a number of old signs proclaiming "Citizens for Resnick," "nobody can be certain. These signs might be hauled out and used again.

Women Voters Slate New Member Meeting

The League of Women Voters of Kingston will hold a special meeting for prospective members Wednesday 8 p. m. in conjunction with its membership drive. Mrs. Benjamin Meyerhoff, current membership chairman, will be hostess for the evening at her home on Elmendorf Drive.

The program will consist of orientation to the structure and function of the League and a review of current projects and study groups. Mrs. Meyerhoff mentioned that the program will stress the great variety of activities in which League members are engaged so that new members may find the one that is of particular interest to them.

More Tour Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP) — The Hawaii Visitors Bureau reports 556,375 visitors stayed overnight or longer in the Islands during the first six months of 1968.

The bureau said this represented a 22.4 per cent increase over the same period last year. An increase in the number of servicemen coming to Hawaii on rest and recuperation leave from Vietnam was a major factor in the tourism rise.

Helping with preparation for the new-membership meeting are Mrs. Irving Harris, Mrs. James Tirpan and Mrs. Sam Baillinson. The League of Women Voters invites anyone interested in becoming a member to contact Mrs. Meyerhoff for a personal invitation.

Mayor Raymond W. Garaghan has proclaimed Sept. 16-23 as League of Women Voters Week and during this time League members will be working on their finance drive by personally contacting

Resnick to Open Ellenville Business

By CHARLES BERMPOHL

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick is going back into business in Ellenville.

The second-term Democratic congressman, scheduled to leave the U. S. House of Representatives on Jan. 3, 1969, will establish a bottling cap industry in an area known as Oak Ridge.

The new company, to be called Clo-Tron Industries, is located to the west of the Wawarsing population center, up the winding road of a mountain, at the site of the original Resnick homestead.

Clo-Tron will make aluminum, plastic, and cork bottle caps, and, at the outset, will employ about 30 to 40 area residents.

Also in the works, is the establishing of private employment agencies and training schools specifically for minority groups.

Resnick told The Freeman, in an exclusive interview, that he is presently "working on acquiring and founding other companies," relative to the training school scheme, "within the next 30 days."

Also in line with the plan, the Ellenville Democrat further said that is purchasing a machinery company in the area and a research and development company in Connecticut.

Makes Plastics
The development company is presently engaged in the making of plastics and plastic processing equipment.

As for Clo-Tron, the congressman has purchased Arco Crown Cap and Seal, Inc. in Cohoes. The company makes bottle caps and workers are currently dismantling the machinery in the Cohoes plant to be shipped to the Oak Ridge site within the week.

The Oak Ridge plant, abandoned for several years, has about 35,000 square feet of factory floor space.

On the property also is a storage building, formerly a giant two-story chicken coop, which contains "a couple of thousand square feet" of space, according to Resnick, and a laboratory which will be used in research and development for the Clo-Tron operation.

Included on the 80-acre original Resnick farm site, along with a small two-vehicle garage and a house trailer which serves as the living quarters for a caretaker, is a tiny one room cabin which was the Resnick home after a fire claimed the first home about 50 years ago.

Resnick recalled that his mother and father, along with five children, three brothers and two sisters lived in the small cabin for a winter until another house could be built.

Family Historic Center
The homestead can be seen as a historic center for the fam-

Basic Education Plan For Adults Scheduled

Adults in Kingston and the surrounding area who lack a basic education can now avail themselves of this opportunity through a program to be offered beginning Sept. 26.

Tiny Turtle Coloring Fun Contest Starts

Tiny Turtle fans nine years old and under will be offered a second opportunity to compete in Coloring Fun contest sponsored by the Kingston Savings Bank beginning Saturday, Sept. 21. The first such contest which ended last May, attracted 868 entries.

The bank will display 10 selected coloring contest entries in its Wall Street lobby each week for five weeks. Each child whose work is picked for exhibit will receive a free container of crayons from the bank. Only one set of crayons will be awarded to any one child.

Three grand prize winners will be chosen by a panel of judges at the end of five weeks. The three winners will receive a savings account at Kingston Savings Bank. First prize in the contest is $15; second $10 and third $5. If a winner already has a savings account at Kingston Savings Bank, a like amount will be added to his account.

The program, funded by the federal government and now in its fourth year, will be held at the John F. Kennedy School, Gross Street, Kingston. Classes will be held every Monday and Thursday throughout the school year from 7 to 10 p.m.

Adults who have not availed themselves of at least one eighth grade education for various reasons now will be able to sharpen their skills in reading and arithmetic to a point where they may qualify for the New York State High School Equivalency Diploma as a result of the course at the Kennedy School.

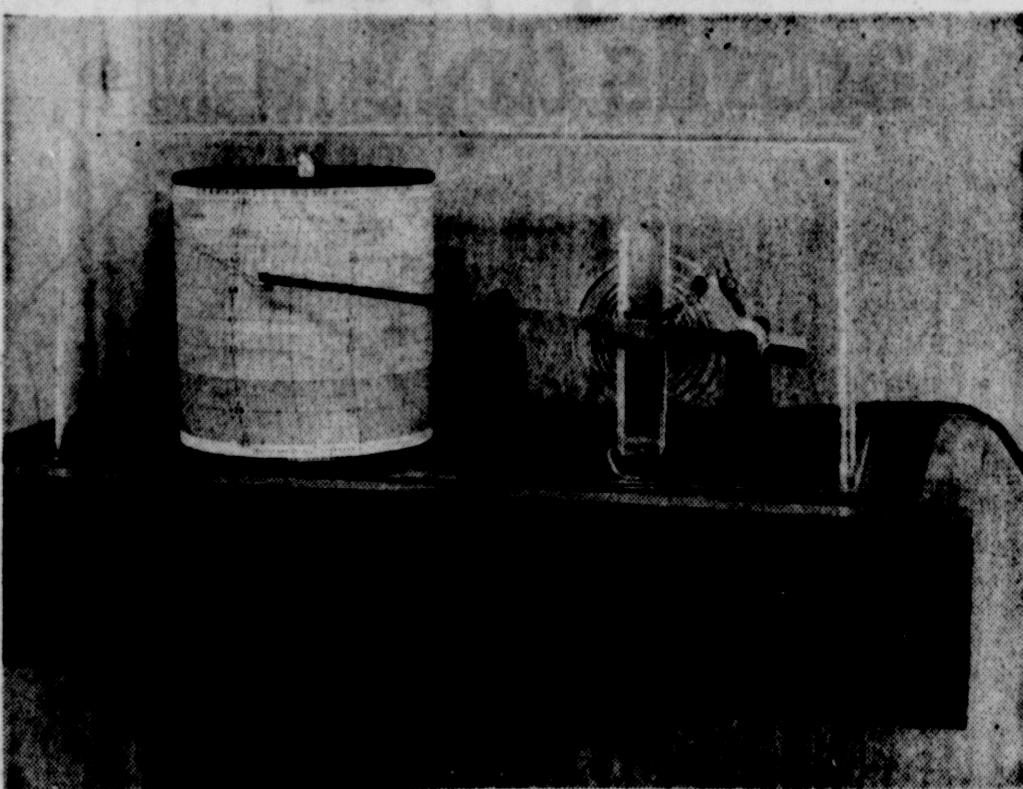

However, the most satisfying part of the program to adults who have been away from school for a time is the growth of their vocabulary and an ability to discover more pleasure and knowledge from better reading skills.

A special appeal is also made to adults who have recently entered the United States. This program may also assist them in hastening their speaking and reading English vocabulary.

All interested adults may register at the John F. Kennedy School on Thursday evening, Sept. 26 at 7 p.m. Registration will also be accepted at every class meeting throughout the year on Monday and Thursdays.

Jacob A. Nolfo, coordinator of the basic education program, urges all interested persons to contact the John F. Kennedy School for further information.

Don't Sell Sarazen or Lyons Short

Neiporte, Pittman Favored in First State PGA Tourney

SARATOGA SPA — Jerry Pittman, a high finisher in this year's U. S. Open and Masters tournament, and Tom Neiporte, winner of the Bob Hope Desert Classic two years ago, have been installed as co-favorites for the first annual New York State Professional Golfers Association tournament.

Only Frank Misarti of the new Sawyerkill Country Club at Saugerties among area pros will compete in the 54-hole event at the Saratoga Spa's championship course Sept. 18-20.

Alex Gerlak, Twaalfskill; Ian (Scotty) Robertson of Wiltyck and Jim Hutehins of Woodstock have not filed entries.

Lyons of nearby Burning Tree in Greenwich, Conn.

Sarazen captured the Northeastern New York PGA District championship two years ago. Lyons, one of the nation's best known golfers in the country, is a former tour player widely known as a teacher and putting instructor.

Lyons has won two of the last four Woodstock Opens and placed second in the other two. Sarazen, of course, has won every major title in the world—the U. S. Open and PGA, British Open and Masters, in which he fired the famed double eagle.

High Powered Foursome

Sarazen is scheduled to tee off Wednesday at 8:58 a. m. in a high powered foursome that includes a highly regarded young pro, Terry Wilcox; Doug Ford, one of the all-time money winners and former National PGA champion and Sam Urz-

GENE SARAZEN
ta, Rochester pro and former National Amateur champion, Lyons is scheduled to tee off 12:48 a. m.

Wilcox, who finished 8th in the recent Thunderbird Classic, is also rated among the top threats, along with Bob Watson, former Metropolitan PGA and Panama Open champion; Ed Furgol, the 1945 U.S. Open champion and resident pro at The Concord.

Tournament officials are holding open a spot for Claude Harmon, former U.S. Open champion, but it is not known if he will compete.

Claude Young, the grizzled Winding Brook veteran, heads the Northeastern contingent

which also includes Al Stein of Glens Falls, Bob Mix, Albany, and Ed Bosse of Colonie, the tournament's general chairman.

Tom Creavy is the host pro at the Saratoga Spa course.

Favors Long Hitters

According to Bosse and Creavy, the tournament hosts, the 7,109-yard course favors the long-ball hitters, although both agree the probable winner will be the player who can master the tough par-3's.

"With the exception of one, the 8th hole, the par 3's are as demanding as those of any major tournament in the country. They will require a two iron or three iron or three or four wood and, above all, the shot must be accurately placed," Bosse said.

Both pros termed wind and rain as major factors in determining the winning score for the tournament. Estimates for the 54 holes run from six-under-par 210 if the wind is calm and the course stays dry, to even par 216 if there is a change in weather.

Overall, the course is long and flat. Many of the holes are lined with pine and white birch, making it essential that tee shots do not stray too far off line. Precise second shots, many requiring middle and long irons, will spell the differences to some of the contenders, since approaches to many of the greens are guarded by fairway bunkers located 30 to 50 yards out, and the greens are well trapped on left and right.

The public will be able to watch the action free of charge and a large scoreboard identical to the one used on the national tour has been set up convenient to the clubhouse.

A pro-am opened the four-day event today.

Tigers Claw Yanks, 9-1 To Tie for AL Pennant

(Editors Note: Mike Ferraro had a single in three official trips in the Yankee-Tiger contest last night at Tiger Stadium. It was his third hit since being recalled to replace the ailing Bobby Cox.)

DETROIT (UPI)—The Detroit Tigers clinched a tie for their first American League pennant in 23 years Monday night as Norm Cash drove in five runs with a single and a three run homer in a 9-1 romp over New York, snapping the Yankees' 10-game winning streak.

The Tigers, who stretched their winning streak to seven, are now in a position to wrap up the pennant by winning just one of their last 11 games.

John Hiller threw an eight-hitter for the 10th complete game in a row by a Detroit pitcher. Hiller, who struck out seven and walked only one, is now 9-5.

Joe Verbanic, 6-6, couldn't retire a single hitter as the Tigers wrapped up the game with four runs in the first inning and five more in the second.

Dick McAuliffe opened the game with a single and beat the throw to second when Mickey Stanley grounded to third. Jim Northrup followed with a run-were about the only teams to escape the madcap shuffle from the preseason rankings.

Purdue attracted 14 of the 50 first-place votes and 584 points, while Southern Cal. had eight and 536 and Notre Dame two and 488.

Houston, unmentioned in the preseason poll, leaped all the way to 11th after humiliating Tulane 54-7, and Georgia took over the No. 18 spot after a 17-17 tie with Tennessee that dropped the Vols from ninth to 12th.

Nebraska, only other ranked team in action over the weekend, remained 14th after a 13-10 last-minute victory over Wyoming.

Texas Moves Up

Texas moved up a spot to fourth, trading place with Oklahoma, while Florida climbed a notch to sixth and Alabama moved from 10th to seventh.

Oregon State dropped from sixth to eighth, Ohio State moved from 11th to ninth and Penn State fell two spots to 10th to round out the top 10.

Texas A&M slipped from 12th to 13th, Indiana from 13th to 15th, Minnesota from 15th into a tie with UCLA for 16th, Miami jumped from 20th to 19th and Louisiana State, dropped from 18th to 20th.

Arizona State, 17th in the preseason poll, and Syracuse, 19th, vanished from the ratings although neither has played a game yet.

The top 20 undoubtedly will undergo another shakeup next week, since three games this weekend match rated teams.

Oklahoma opens at Notre Dame, while Minnesota is at Southern California and Houston tests Texas.

WILLIE LOSES HIS COOL: Willie Mays lost his "cool" in Frisco last night as he trotted in from centerfield for bottom half of 4th inning, after making tremendous catch of Cincinnati's Vada Pinson's long fly to R-CF fence. As Mays came to the dugout and standing ovation, two Air Force sergeants (lower R), on leave—who later claimed to be Mets rooters—called Mays a bum, "about time you earned your money." Willie apparently took umbrage at the remarks of his antagonists and tried to climb the wall, after them. Restraining Mays is Manager Herman Franks (losing his hat and glasses), Dave Marshall (18), Frank Johnson (20), while Hal Lanier (C) takes on the hecklers verbally. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Wonderous Willie Mays Has No Time For Buck Sergeants of This Stripe

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Willie Mays and Ty Cobb, two of the greatest outfielders of all time, had something else in common today.

Both have tried to go into the stands and grab a heckler.

Cobb did it sometime a half-century ago.

Mays tried it Monday after a pair of servicemen in mufti had been jockeying him for four innings of the game with the Cincinnati Reds.

Mays expressed regret afterward over the incident and said he hoped his hecklers would be back to enjoy a game.

Willie's temper, which rarely flares, did so just after he had made a great catch of Vada Pinson's drive during the fourth inning of the Giants' 6-4 victory.

"Nice catch, Willie!" one of the men shouted from a front seat beside the Giants dugout as the club came in to bat. "For a $100,000 bum you're finally earning your money."

Mays sought to climb over the railing and confront his hecklers. Manager Herman Franks restrained him, was shaken off by the centerfielder and fell into a concrete wall. Willie made another attempt to climb up the side then was pulled back by Frank Johnson.

Shortstop Hal Lanier also essayed a charge but didn't make it. Catcher-first baseman Jack Hiatt then exchanged remarks with the men who were taken off by the police.

They subsequently were released after identifying themselves as Sgt. Jay D. Eash and T. Sgt. William Muncy of the Air Force. 1 "We're Mets rooters," Eash said afterward. "I've rooted in a lot of game. Mays and the Giants don't know that, I guess."

"There's no hard feelings," Mays said afterward. "The guys can come back tomorrow." Willie said they had been hollering at him and other home recovering from mononucleosis.

Bucs Blast Phils, 6-1

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Donn Clendenen drove in two runs with a single and his 16th homer and Bill Mazeroski also batted in a pair with a bases-loaded single Monday night to lead the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 6-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Rookie Dock Ellis pitched his first complete game and scattered three to pick up his fifth victory in nine decisions for the Pirates. Ellis lost a shutout when Tony Taylor hit his third homer in the third inning.

WILKES-BARRE, PA. — All Star selection in the 1967-68 season and was named DUSO's Player of the Year. Five times during his KHS career he hit the net for 31 points.

Gilligan, son of basketball coach and Mrs. John Gilligan of Kingston, is a pre-law student, who figures prominently in King's future basketball plans.

Gilligan's coach will be Ed Donohue, a native of Poughkeepsie, who is also the newly-appointed director of athletics at King's. A Syracuse alumnus, Donohue is a former freshman coach at Niagara University.

King's will be starting basketball practice next month in a new two-million-dollar gym now in the final stages of construction.

The Catholic college for men, which has 1900 students, plays the first game under Coach Donohue in the new facility on Dec. 3 when the University of Notre Dame's Fighting Irish come to Wilkes-Barre to tangle with the Monarchs.

Harvey Bostic's Capture Husband and Wife Title

Club champion Harvey Bostic and his wife, who is affectionately called Pappy by her friends, are the new Husband and Wife champions at the Wiltwyck Country Club.

Papa Bostic scored Wittic's par 36-36-72 layout with a 3-under par 69 and Mrs. Bostic broke "110" for the first time with a 52-47-99 to give them a whopping 168 gross and the title.

Bostic's 69 was two strokes higher than his personal course low of 67. He missed an eagle-3 on the par-five 17th.

The handicap championship went to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lowe with 146. Lowe had 105-28-77, while Mrs. Lowe was contributing 86-17-69.

Other net leaders were: Dr. and Mrs. Sidney Pauker, 147; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Sawyer and Dr. and Mrs. Charles Kovacs, tied with 148; Mr. and Mrs. Howard DeWitt, 149; Mr. and Mrs. John Hall, 150; three-way tie for eighth at 154 among: Mr. and Mrs. Sam Levine, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Brown to win the high jump at 173. Ryun helped set some of the pace in the 1500, fell back and was in last place starting the gun lap. He went into his kick on the back turn, zoomed past Martin Liquori, a 19-year-old soph from Villanova, and won by 25 meters.

Liquori was second in 3:49.5 and Tom Von Ruden, former Oklahoma State star now in the Army, moved up in the final 100 meters to gain the third and last Olympic berth in the event. His time was 3:49.8.

Left far up the track and a well beaten fourth was Dave Patrick, who was the United States' top 1500 meter man this spring while Ryun, the world record holder at 3:33.1, was hollering at him and other home recovering from mononucleosis.

Don't Sell Sarazen or Lyons Short

Neiporte, Pittman Favored in First State PGA Tourney

SARATOGA SPA — Jerry Pittman, a high finisher in this year's U. S. Open and Masters tournament, and Tom Neiporte, winner of the Bob Hope Desert Classic two years ago, have been installed as co-favorites for the first annual New York State Professional Golfers Association tournament.

Only Frank Misarti of the new Sawyerkill Country Club at Saugerties among area pros will compete in the 54-hole event at the Saratoga Spa's championship course Sept. 18-20.

Alex Gerlak, Twaalfskill; Ian (Scotty) Robertson of Wiltwyck and Jim Hutchins of Woodstock have not filed entries.

While Pittman and Neiporte share the favorite's role, tournament officials are not writing off either Gene Sarazen, the Germantown Master or Toby Lyons of nearby Burning Tree in Greenwich, Conn. Sarazen captured the Northeastern New York PGA District championship two years ago. Lyons, one of the nation's best known golfers in the country, is a former tour player widely known as a teacher and putting instructor.

Lyons has won two of the last four Woodstock Opens and placed second in the other two. Sarazen, of course, has won every major title in the world—the U. S. Open and PGA, British Open and Masters, in which he fired the famed double eagle.

High Powered Foursome
Sarazen is scheduled to tee off Wednesday at 8:58 a. m. in a high powered foursome that includes a highly regarded young pro, Terry Wilcox; Doug Ford, one of the all-time money winners and former National PGA champion and Sam Urzet-

ta, Rochester pro and former National Amateur champion. Lyons is scheduled to tee off 12:48 a. m.

Wilcox, who finished 8th in the recent Thunderbird Classic, is also rated among the top threats, along with Bob Watson, former Metropolitan PGA and Panama Open champion; Ed Furgol, the 1945 U.S. Open champion and resident pro at The Concord.

Tournament officials are holding open a spot for Claude Harmon, former U.S. Open champion, but it is not known if he will compete.

Claude Young, the grizzled Winding Brook veteran, heads the Northeastern contingent

Favors Long Hitters
According to Bosse and Creavy, the tournament hosts, the 7,109-yard course favors the long-ball hitters, although both agree the probable winner will be the player who can master the tough par-3's.

"With the exception of one, the 8th hole, the par 3's are as demanding as those of any major tournament in the country. They will require a two iron or three iron or three or four wood and, above all, the shot must be accurately placed," Bosse said.

Both pros termed wind and rain as major factors in determining the winning score for the tournament. Estimates for the 54 holes run from six-under-par 210 if the wind is calm and the course stays dry, to even par 216 if there is a change in weather.

Overall, the course is long and flat. Many of the holes are lined with pine and white birch, making it essential that tee shots do not stray too far off line. Precise second shots, many requiring middle and long irons, will spell the differences to some of the contenders, since approaches to many of the greens are guarded by fairway bunkers located 30 to 50 yards out, and the greens are well trapped on left and right.

The public will be able to watch the action free of charge and a large scoreboard identical to the one used on the national tour has been set up conveniently at the clubhouse. A pro-am opened the four-day event today.

Purdue, Southern Cal. Rate 1-2 in AP's College Poll

Houston and Georgia cracked The Associated Press' major into the rankings as a weekend college football poll. The top three—Purdue, Southern Cal. and Georgia—were about the only teams to escape the madcap shuffle from the preseason rankings.

Snap 10-Game Streak

Tigers Claw Yanks, 9-1 To Tie for AL Pennant

(Editors Note: Mike Ferraro had a single in three official trips in the Yankee-Tiger contest last night at Tiger Stadium. It was his third hit since being recalled to replace the ailing Bobby Cox.)

DETROIT (UPI)—The Detroit Tigers clinched a tie for their first American League pennant in 23 years Monday night as Norm Cash drove in five runs with a single and a three-run homer in a 9-1 romp over New York, snapping the Yankees' 10-game winning streak.

The Tigers, who stretched their winning streak to seven, are now in a position to wrap up the pennant by winning just one of their last 11 games.

John Hiller threw an eight-inning complete game in a row by a Detroit pitcher. Hiller, who struck out seven and walked only one, is now 9-5.

Joe Verbanic, 6-6, couldn't retire a single hitter as the Tigers wrapped up the game with four runs in the first inning and five more in the second.

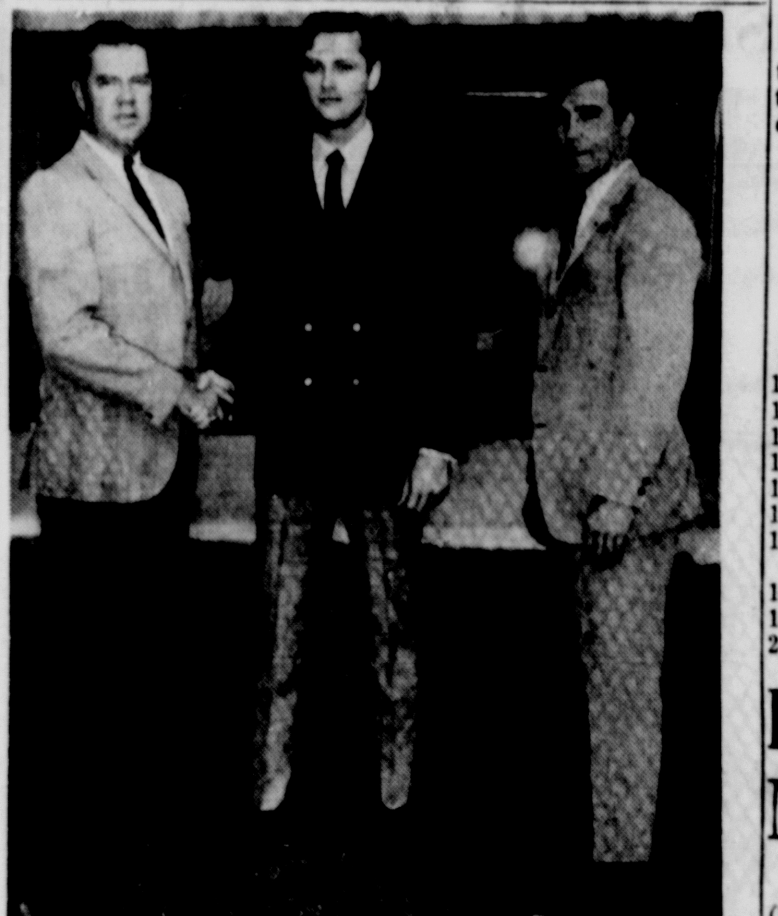

Dick McAuliffe opened the game with a single and beat the throw to second when Mickey Stanley grounded to third. Jim Northrup followed with a run-scoring single and Willie Horton walked, loading the bases. Cash, hitting better than .300 since the All-Star game, rifled a single to left for two runs and one more followed when Bill Freehan singled to left. Cash also doubled in the sixth.

Steve Barber retired the side without further damage but walked McAuliffe and Stanley, then hit Northrup to open the second inning. He wild-pitched home a run and served up Cash's 22nd homer. Singles by Freehan and Tom Matchick plus an infield out by Don Wert produced the final Detroit run.

Bruce Gilligan Enrolls At Wilkes-Barre School

WILKES-BARRE, PA. — All Star selection in the 1967-68 season and named DUSO's Player of the Year. Five times during his KHS career he hit the net for 31 points.

Gilligan, son of basketball coach and Mrs. John Gilligan of Kingston, is a pre-law student, who figures prominently in King's future basketball plans.

Gilligan's coach will be Ed Donohue, a native of Poughkeepsie, who is also the newly-appointed director of athletics at King's. A Syracuse alumnus, Donohue is a former freshman coach at Niagara University.

King's will be starting basketball practice next month in a new two-million-dollar gym now in the final stages of construction.

The Catholic college for men, which has 1900 students, plays the first game under Coach Donohue in the new facility on Dec. 3 when the University of Notre Dame's Fighting Irish come to tangle with the Monarchs.

Gilligan was a DUSO League Morse.

were about the only teams to escape the madcap shuffle from the preseason rankings.

Purdue attracted 14 of the 50 first-place votes and 584 points, while Southern Cal had eight and 536 and Notre Dame two and 488.

Houston, unmentioned in the preseason poll, leaped all the way to 11th after humiliating Tulane 54-7, and Georgia took over the No. 18 spot after a 17-17 tie with Tennessee that dropped the Vols from ninth to 12th.

Nebraska, only other ranked team in action over the weekend, remained 14th after a 13-10 last-minute victory over Wyoming.

Texas Moves Up

Texas moved up a spot to fourth, trading place with Oklahoma, while Florida climbed a notch to sixth and Alabama moved from 10th to seventh. Oregon State dropped from sixth to eighth, Ohio State moved from 11th to ninth and Penn State fell two spots to 10th to round out the top 10.

Texas A&M slipped from 12th to 13th, Indiana from 13th to 15th, Minnesota from 15th into a tie with UCLA for 16th, Miami jumped from 20th to 19th and Louisiana State, dropped from 18th to 20th.

Arizona State, 17th in the preseason poll, and Syracuse, 19th, vanished from the ratings although neither has played a game yet.

The top 20 undoubtedly will undergo another shakeup next week, since three games this weekend match rated teams.

Renick HR Nips Twins

ST. PAUL—MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—Rookie Rick Renick hit his third homer of the season leading off the ninth inning Monday to give the Minnesota Twins a 4-3 victory over the California Angels.

The homer came minutes before a driving downpour drenched Metropolitan Stadium. The start was delayed 20 minutes by rain and the game itself was played in intermittent rain.

The homer came off Sam Ellis, the fourth Angel pitcher who was charged with his 10th loss against nine victories. The victory went to Jim Merritt, the third Twins' pitcher who went one inning to gain the triumph and boost his record to 11-16.

WILLIE LOSES HIS COOL: Willie Mays lost his "cool" in Frisco last night as he trotted in from centerfield for bottom half of 4th inning, after making tremendous catch of Cincinnati's Vada Pinson's long fly to R-CF fence. As Mays came to the dugout and standing ovation, two Air Force sergeants (lower R), on leave—who later claimed to be Mets rooters—called Mays a bum, "about time you earned your money." Willie apparently took umbrage at the remarks of his antagonists and tried to climb the wall, after them. Restraining Mays is Manager Herman Franks (losing his hat and glasses), Dave Marshall (18), Frank Johnson (20), while Hal Lanier (C) takes on the hecklers verbally. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Wonderous Willie Mays Has No Time For Buck Sergeants of This Stripe

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Willie Mays and Ty Cobb, two of the greatest outfielders of all ballparks across the country but don't know that, I guess.

"There's no hard feelings," Mays said afterward. "The guys state this can come back tomorrow." Willie said they had been record holder at 3:33.1, was hollering at him and other home recovering from mononucleosis.

Bucs Blast Phils, 6-1

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Donn Clendenon drove in two runs with a single and his 16th homer and Bill Mazeroski also batted in a pair with a bases-loaded single Monday night to lead the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 6-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Rookie Dock Ellis pitched his first complete game and scattered three to pick up his fifth victory in nine decisions for the Pirates. Ellis lost a shutout when Tony Taylor hit his third homer in the third inning.

Joray Hurls 1-Hitter

Wright's Cop Playoff Title at Ellenville

ELLENVILLE—Ron Joray is now a prize winning softball pitcher in two leagues. Last night, he climaxed a brilliant season with a one-hit performance, as Wright's Service Station trounced Schrade-Walden, 6 to 1, to win the fifth and deciding game of the post-season playoffs.

Joray, who worked nearly every inning of the five games, held the regular season champions scoreless and hitless after yielding a first inning leadoff homer to Tony Zovistoski, the league leading slugger.

It was Zovistoski's third circuit clout in the playoffs. Two homers figured in the Wright's win.

Joray and Nip Lasher battled 1-1 through four innings before Wright's made their move with two runs in the fifth and three in the seventh, all on homers. In all they touched the Schrade-Walden ace for eight hits, including two each by Horton, Dick Harding and Bob Larson.

Bob Larson singled Doug Horton home in the bottom of the first to create the 1-1 tie. Harding's two-run homer broke up the Joray-Lasher duel sudden death like in the fifth inning.

Larson then boosted his RBI total to four for the night by smashing a three-run homer in the top of the seventh.

Joray Hurls 1-Hitter

Wright's Cop Playoff Title at Ellenville

ELLENVILLE—Ron Joray is now a prize winning softball pitcher in two leagues. First, he picked up some baubles in the Middletown and deciding game of the post-season playoffs. Joray, who worked nearly every inning of the five games, held the regular season champions scoreless and hitless after yielding a first inning leadoff homer to Tony Zivostski, the league leading slugger.

It was Zivostski's third circuit clout in the Wright's winners. Two homers figured in the Wright's win.

Joray and Nip Lasher battled 1-1 through four innings before Wright's made their move with two runs in the fifth and three in the seventh, all on homers. In all they touched the Schrade-Walden ace for eight hits, including two each by Horton, Dick Harding and Bob Larson.

Bob Larson, singled, Doug Horton home in the bottom of the first to create the 1-1 tie. Harding's two-run homer broke over the Joray-Lasher duel sudden death like in the fifth inning.

Larson then boosted his RBI total to four for the night by smashing a three-run homer in the top of the seventh.

Singer O's Braves, 6-0

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Bill Singer climaxed a five-run rally in the sixth inning Monday night by driving in two runs with a double and he hurled the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 6-0 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

The Dodgers broke open a scoreless tie in the sixth inning when they sent 10 men to the plate against Ron Reed, who was charged with the defeat to make his record 10-10.

The victory was Singer's 11th against 15 losses. Willie Crawford opened the big inning with a single and Tom Haller was walked with one out. Jim Lefebvre then singled in Crawford and Len Gabrielson doubled in Haller.

After Bill Sudakis was walked intentionally to load the bases, Felix Millan fumbled Wes Parker's grounder with pinch-runner Bart Shirley scoring from third base.

Gabrielson was forced at the plate before Singer hit his seventh double of the season to drive in Sudakis and Parker.

American League Denies Union Bias in Firings

BOSTON (UPI)—The American League announced Monday night two members of its umpiring staff, Bill Valentine and Al Salerno, have been fired effective immediately.

A league spokesman said reports that the pair was fired for trying to organize the rest of the umpires was "news to us."

Public Relations Director Bob Holbrook said Valentine and Salerno had been notified that "their contracts are not being renewed" and that they were released immediately although they will be paid until the end of the regular season.

A league spokesman said reports that the pair was fired for trying to organize the rest of the umpires was "news to us."

Holbrook said two Southern Association umpires, James "Jake" O'Donnell and Bill Kunkel, a former Yankee pitcher and a National Basketball Association referee, have been called up and will begin work in Cleveland Tuesday night.

Holbrook said reports that Valentine and Salerno had been attempting to organize the AL umpires were "completely new-foreign to us. We just don't know anything about that."

Kunkel and O'Donnell are two of six new umpires who have been hired by the American League but have been working in the minors.

Salerno, 37, a resident New Hartford, N.Y., began umpiring in 1957 and has been a member of the American League staff since 1961.

Valentine, 35, of Little Rock, Ark. has been an umpire since 1951 and was signed by the American League in 1962.

O'Donnell, 29, of Clifton Heights, Pa., began umpiring in 1963 and signed an American League contract in Sept., 1966.

Kunkel, 32, of Leonardo, N.J., has been umpiring since 1966 and his contract was purchased by the American League from the Southern Assn. last December but he continued to work in that league.

BOWDOIN football player John Demenoff (above) of New Paltz is cornerback on the 1968 Bowdoin College varsity football team. A junior, he is son of Prof. and Mrs. John Demenoff of 48 Jenkinson Crossroads, New Paltz. He is a graduate of Fulton High and Trinity-Pawling.

McCovey Rips Reds

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—First baseman Willie McCovey drove in four runs including a pair that broke a seventh-inning tie to lead the San Francisco Giants to an 8-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Monday.

The Giants scored five runs in the seventh inning to come from behind against Cincinnati starter and loser Gary Nolan.

The winning pitcher was Rich Robertson who worked two scoreless innings before the Giants rallied to win. It was his first major league victory. Nolan's mark is 9-3.

The victory put the Giants two games ahead of Cincinnati in the race for second place in the National League.

Lengthy Illness Claims Lobert

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—John (Hans) Lobert, whose bandy legs carried him around the major league basepaths at record speeds almost six decades ago, is dead following a lengthy illness.

Lobert, who managed the Philadelphia Phillies in 1938 and again in 1942, died Saturday at Jeanes Hospital here four weeks before his 87th birthday. He was born in Wilmington, Del., Oct. 18, 1881.

Lobert acquired the nickname Hans because of his resemblance to Hans Wagner when he broke into baseball with the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1903. He had a lifetime batting average of .281 and stole a total of 308 bases in 15 years in the National League with the Pirates, Chicago Cubs, Cincinnati Reds, Phillies and New York Giants.

The bandy-legged infielder once outran a race horse in a 220 yard handicap race at Havana and in 1910 he set a record of 0:13 4-5 for circling the bases which held up until the 1930's. He also was clocked in 0:03 2-5 going to first base. A leg injury with the Giants in 1917 ended his playing career.

He was baseball coach of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point from 1918 through 1925. He coached eight years for the Phillies before losing his job as manager at the end of the 1942 season when the ownership of the club went from Gerry Nugent to William D. Cox. He later coached for the Reds and Giants and was listed as a Giants' scout at the time of his death.

Mets Assume 2-0 Lead in Cup Play

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—The Jacksonville Mets survived a Columbus homer barrage with fine relief pitching from Barry Raziano Monday night to defeat the Jets 6-4 and take a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven International League final Governor's Cup series.

Raziano came in after Jacksonville starter Tug McGraw was tagged by Manny Sanguillen's two-run homer in the fifth and George Spriggs' home run with a man on in the sixth that cut the Mets' lead to 5-4. Raziano held the Jets scoreless the final 3 2-3 innings.

Jacksonville out hit Columbus 16-13 in the slugfest. Will Huckle paced the Mets attack with four hits.

The series moves to Jacksonville for the next three games and returns to Columbus for a final pair if necessary.

Birds Bomb Bosox, 8-1

BOSTON (UPI)—Don Buford's grand slam and solo homers by Brooks Robinson and Boog Powell Monday night powered the Baltimore Orioles to an 8-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox which prevented Detroit from clinching the American League pennant.

Buford's bases-loaded homer, his 15th home run of the season, came off losing starter Jim Lonborg in the fourth inning as Baltimore's Tom Phoebus gained credit for his 15th win with ninth-inning relief help from Eddie Watt.

Brooks Robinson hit his 16th homer in the second inning and Powell his 22nd in the fifth, both with the bases empty, as the Orioles scored their ninth win in 16 games with Boston this season.

With a fully automatic transmission.

If you bet a friend we never would, we almost didn't.

10 years ago the decision was made. To design a fully automatic transmission. The kind you put in drive and forget.

Our aim was to make things easy, but for us changes aren't easy to make.

Especially in this case. There were certain things we just didn't want to lose.

Like horsepower, and our reputation for being economical.

What we've ended up with is a 3-speed automatic transmission that's pure Volkswagen—designed from scratch to get the most out of the VW with the least expenditure of effort.

It has the fewest moving parts.

It's the lightest per horsepower output. And it's incredibly sensitive. (A model airplane engine is powerful enough to turn it.)

So come see how far Volkswagen has come.

The Squareback and Fastback. Both have disk brakes, an electronically controlled fuel injection system, and now, a fully automatic transmission.

If you're interested, it's available as an option on our '69 models.

If you're not interested, we sure went to a lot of trouble for nothing.

Two Sides to Margin Buying

Q — What is meant by "margin" buying? Is it a wise practice and what are its advantages? I'm new to the market and would appreciate an explanation. — B. MCP.

A — I'll be glad to give you one. Buying stocks on margin means that you put up part of the purchase price and the broker lends you the balance. The margin rate — or what you put up — is fixed by the Federal Reserve Board and at present is 80 per cent of a stock's cost. One advantage of margin buying is increased purchasing power and another is the resulting profit potential — which is larger than if you put up the entire cost. The disadvantage — even danger — in the practice is related to a possible drop in the value of your purchase. If your stock declines too far you will be asked for more margin — cash or collateral — and if you can't put this up to support your account, you're sold out. There is also an interest charge on the unpaid balance of the loan which can prove quite costly over a period of time.

Chrysler First Again in Chilly Price Plunge

DETROIT (UPI) — Once again, Chrysler Corp. has taken the first, chilly plunge and marked up prices for its 1969 models.

The third-largest of the "big four" automakers Monday announced average price increases of $84 per car, less than two-thirds of the $133 jump it initially announced for 1968 models last year.

The year's increase was promptly labeled a "dangerous inflationary threat" by the Johnson administration's watchdog Committee on Price Stability.

"If it becomes the pattern for the industry, it would cost the American consumer $750 million. The Chrysler action is clearly not in the national interest," the committee said.

John J. Riccardo, Chrysler group vice president, U.S. and Canadian automotive, said the '69 price rise averaged about 2.9 per cent. The new prices do not include the cost of head restraints which become a safety requirement for all cars built after Jan. 1, 1969.

The head restraints will be a $25 option on Chrysler cars until the new year when the cost will be automatically added to the $84 increase.

Presumably, pressure from the federal government was one factor in keeping the increase relatively small. Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., last week claimed that automakers reportedly were planning a $200-per-car boost.

Another factor was Chrysler's embarrassment last year when it was forced to roll back its $133 hike to keep pace with General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co.'s smaller increases.

Besides the jump in base price and the charge for optional equipment, there is a hidden increase in the '69 Chrysler because of changes in the new car warranty program.

It sliced the basic warranty coverage on most parts of the car to 12 months or 12,000 miles from 24 months or 24,000 miles. A further hitch is that the new warranty is not transferrable. In 1968, the 24-24 portion of the warranty could be used by the car's second owner.

Rocky Going To West Coast For Nixon Aid

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller will speak in San Francisco on behalf of the Republican presidential ticket, the governor's office said Monday. The governor is scheduled to fly to the West Coast city Thursday for two days of appearances.

Rockefeller recently returned from Minnesota, where he campaigned for Richard M. Nixon, the Republican presidential candidate, and Spiro Agnew, the GOP vice-presidential nominee. The governor has indicated he would campaign for Nixon and other Republican candidates in several other states.

Aides are working out the details of the governor's trip to San Francisco.

Economy Goes Down Despite Tax Surcharge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government officials say two economic indicators have failed to show a hoped for response to enactment of the income tax surcharge.

The Federal Reserve Board announced Monday that industrial production dropped in August, but that the decline was attributable more to the after effects of a steel labor settlement than to government efforts to cool off the economy.

The production index fell from 165.6 in July to 164.0 in August on a scale in which the 1957-59 base period is 100.

Production of consumer goods remained at what the board called "advanced levels" and there was little change in the volume of auto assemblies after allowance for model change-over.

But the output of iron and steel showed a sharp decline after several months of peak production while buyers built inventories as a hedge against a possible strike.

At the same time, government officials predicted privately that third quarter figures for the Gross National Product (GNP) would not show anywhere near the dip that had been hoped for. The administration reportedly had been hoping the income tax surcharge and other anti-inflation moves would cut the third quarter increase to just over $10 billion in the value of all goods and services produced in the nation.

But now many government officials are saying this won't happen and that the increase will be between $15 billion and $20 billion.

Fight Brush Fire
Firemen from Mt. Marion-Ruby fire district were called out Monday night to extinguish a brush fire that apparently was started by sparks from an incinerator. Chief William Scheffel was in charge of about 30 volunteers who responded to the alarm.

Driver Summoned
Judy A. Peterson, 18, of Millers Lane, was summoned by Kingston Police early today on charges of operating a motor vehicle with insufficient lights and unsafe tires. The summonses are returnable before City Judge Hubert A. Richter.

Ellenville state police said Frank Blanchard, of 1766 First Avenue, was pronounced dead at the scene. Ulster County Coroner Arthur C. Chipp of Kerhonkson went to the scene to investigate with state police BCI investigators and a uniformed detail.

The car involved in the county's latest traffic fatality was operated by George E. Barthel, 23, of Wawarsing. He was not cited by the investigators.

A report of troopers noted that Barthel was traveling east on Main Street and the pedestrian was walking in a westerly direction on the north side of the street with his back to the traffic when he was struck by a car at 9:10 p. m.

Ironically, the 41st traffic fatality in 1967 occurred on Nov. 11 when William Dever, 34, of Kerhonkson, was killed in a two-car collision on Route 209 in the Town of Napanoch. Willie Miles, of Ellenville, also was fatally injured in that mishap.

In another accident investigated by Ellenville troopers, Helen Bailey, 65, of Pine Bush, was injured at 7:15 p. m. yesterday when the car she was driving went off the right side of Awosting Road in the Town of Shawangunk and struck a utility pole.

Troopers said the woman was treated at Horton Memorial Hospital in Middletown for a laceration of the right knee and bruises of the forehead.

Dr. Hale, AMC Administrator, Is Retiring

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Dr. Thomas Hale, dean of major hospital administrators in the state, will retire Oct. 7 as chief administrative officer of Albany Medical Center Hospital.

Hale, 64, has held the post for 22 years. Under his leadership, the hospital has completed expansion and renovation programs costing more than $15 million and has grown from 371 beds in 1946 to more than 800. Hale has long supported hospital schools of nursing and also the need for regional planning for hospitals.

Joggers Find Bodies of Four In Cleveland

CLEVELAND (UPI) — All summer long children laughed and frolicked on a grassy knoll near a peaceful lagoon in Rockefeller Park in the city's East Side.

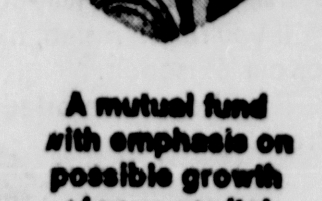

But what was an idyllic area only a few days ago is now the center of a search for murder suspects. Two men jogging Monday came upon the bodies of three men and a woman.

All victims had been shot to death. Police sent an all-points bulletin for "three or four white males" in an automobile.

One victim was identified as Joseph Zoldan, 54, white, operator of Tom's Bar which police said was a meeting place for hoodlums. Another victim was Margaret Lancaster, 21, who police said was a known prostitute.

Also killed were Raymond Homer, 26, a bartender in Zoldan's tavern, and Ronald Mahoney, 25, an orderly at the Cleveland Clinic.

Homer and Mahoney were Negroes. The bodies were found about three feet apart in the vicinity of the Cleveland Art Museum. All had been shot in the head.

Two Sides to Margin Buying

Q — What is meant by "margin" buying? Is it a wise practice and what are its advantages? I'm new to the market and would appreciate an explanation. — B. MCP.

A — I'll be glad to give you one. Buying stocks on margin means that you put up part of the purchase price and the broker lends you the balance. The margin rate — or what you put up — is fixed by the Federal Reserve Board and at present is 80 per cent of a stock's cost. One advantage of margin buying is increased purchasing power and another

DETROIT (UPI) — Once again, Chrysler Corp. has taken the first, chilly plunge and marked up prices for its 1969 models.

But the leap was a bit more conservative this year.

The third-largest of the "big four" automakers Monday announced average price increases of $44 per car, less than two-thirds of the $133 jump it initially announced for 1968 models last year.

The year's increase was promptly labeled a "dangerous inflationary threat" by the Johnson administration's watchdog Committee on Price Stability.

"If it becomes the pattern for the industry, it would cost the American consumer $750 million. The Chrysler action is clearly not in the national interest," the committee said.

John J. Riccardo, Chrysler group vice president, U.S. and Canadian automotive, said the '69 price rise averaged about 2.9 per cent. The new prices do not include the cost of head restraints which become a safety requirement for all cars built after Jan. 1, 1969.

The head restraints will be a $25 option on Chrysler cars until the new year when the cost will be automatically added to the $44 increase.

Presumably, pressure from the federal government was one factor in keeping the increase relatively small. Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., last week claimed that automakers reportedly were planning a $200-per-car boost.

Magnuson urged the President's Council of Economic Advisers to investigate car pricing policies.

Another factor was Chrysler's embarrassment last year when it was forced to roll back its $133 hike to keep pace with General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co.'s smaller increases.

Besides the jump in base price and the charge for optional equipment, there is a hidden increase in the '69 Chrysler because of changes in the new car warranty program.

It sliced the basic warranty coverage on most parts of the car to 12 months or 12,000 miles from 24 months or 24,000 miles. A further hitch is that the new warranty is not transferrable. In 1968, the 24-24 portion of the warranty could be used by the car's second owner.

Big Guns Keep Up Pressure on Czechs

PRAGUE (AP) — Thousands of Soviet troops ring Prague with their big guns aimed at the city to keep pressure on Czechoslovakia's leaders.

The steel ring of Soviet artillery is evident to anyone traveling outside the now tranquil but sad city. Heavy cannon, rockets and missiles point at Czechoslovakia's capital from north, south, and east and west.

One military expert says there is enough artillery not only to destroy the 600-year-old city but to "overkill" it if shelling is ordered.

Guns Everywhere

A short ride on the main highway east of Prague, a left turn toward the village of Dubec and there are 24 big guns set up in the alfalfa fields, their barrels pointed toward the capital. Twelve are lined up in a row to the right of the road; there are two groups of six on the left. The guns appear to be 122mm cannon with a range of more than nine miles. Downtown Prague is less than eight miles away so these weapons could hit the presidential palace on the opposite bank of the Vltava River.

A mile or so farther are five batteries of multiple rocket launchers pointing at the city. A few hundred yards beyond the end of Prague's Stranice streetcar line, two score Soviet T55 medium tanks are parked, their guns directed toward the city.

Northwest of Prague, near the village of Horomerice, more than 50 big guns are concentrated within half a mile. They include at least 18 122mm howitzers, six huge 152mm cannon plus 85mm guns and 57mm automatic antiaircraft batteries. Some travelers have also seen missiles mounted on tanks aimed at Prague from the east and several tank regiments.

The artillerymen live in tents near their weapons with ammunition and supplies stockpiled nearby. Estimates of the total number of occupation troops ringing Prague range up to 90,000.

Very Little Camouflaged

Very little is camouflaged, and the site of artillery aimed at the big city is clearly visible to Czechs picking apples in nearby orchards or passing on their motorcycles.

The implication is that all the hardware is there to frighten the people and intimidate their liberal Communist leaders to meet Soviet demands.

One major demand, for renewed censorship of press and radio, is now being enforced. As a result, details are meager on the continuing talks between Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily Kuznetsov and the Czechoslovak leaders.

Lomenzo Must Show Cause Why McCarthy Is Off Ballot

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary of State John P. Lomenzo has been ordered to appear Thursday in State Supreme Court to show cause why the name of Minnesota Sen. Eugene McCarthy should not be on the New York presidential ballot in the fall election.

Conservatives To Hear Bell

H. Clark Bell, Republican Conservative candidate for the Assembly, will be guest speaker Thursday, Oct. 10, at a meeting of the Kingston Area Conservative Party at 8 p. m. in the Ulster County Court House.

Conservative Party candidates Michael Lange, who seeks the State Senate seat and Sheriff William B. Martin, who seeks reelection, were speakers at a recent meeting of the Conservative Party.

Lomenzo had removed McCarthy's name at the request of the senator, McCarthy, who was defeated by Hubert H. Humphrey for the Democratic presidential nomination, had written the secretary disclaiming all efforts in his behalf.

The Coalition for an Independent Candidacy obtained the show-cause order Monday from Supreme Court Justice Lawrence H. Cooke.

The Coalition said that McCarthy has not supported its work, and the Coalition has not solicited his backing. More than 20,000 names have been solicited to put McCarthy's name on the ballot, the group said.

The Coalition will meet Saturday in Albany to plan a statewide Draft McCarthy campaign.

6 More N.Y. Viet Deaths

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Six more servicemen from New York State have been killed in the Vietnam War.

The Defense Department released Monday casualty list that included the names of:
Army Spec. 4 Robert J. Benz, 22, of Syracuse, son of Mrs. Mary A. Benz of Fairport; Army Spec. 4 Harry L. Van Alst Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Van Alst Sr. of LeRoy; Army Pvt. David R. Lilly, husband of Mrs. Catherine L. Lilly of Binghamton; Marine Pfc. Franz Tines, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tines of Cherry Valley, near Oneonta, and Army Pfc. Larry W. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Whitney A. Johnson of Corning.

Navy Hospitalman Thomas E. Welker, 23, of Darien Center, about 25 miles east of Buffalo, was killed while serving as a corpsman with the Marines, his mother Mrs. Jean Welker said. Welker enlisted in the Navy in December, 1965. He had been in Vietnam since August 1.

TB Unit Gives Vitamin Advice

The Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association reminds vitamin takers that vitamins by themselves cannot guarantee good nutrition. "Their job," says the health unit, "is to coordinate the body's utilization derived from other materials. There are, in fact, distinct limits to the amount of vitamin intake that can benefit anybody."

The use of vitamins is a question for doctors or other experts, not patients or laymen, to decide, they add.

Health Clinics

Child health conferences will be conducted by the Ulster County Health Department for infant and preschool children on Tuesday, Sept. 24, from 1 to 3 p. m., at Hasbrouck Hall, Modena, and on Wednesday, Sept. 25, from 1 to 3 p. m., at the M. F. Whitney House Co. Building, Chichester Road, Phoenicia.

The clinics are for the maintenance of health and the prevention of disease, notes the health department, and not for the care of sick children. An appointment is required by the department to avoid overcrowding. Parents may schedule an appointment by calling the public health nurse at the Woodstock, Allaben, or Milton Health Centers, Monday through Friday from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Good to the Last

SYDNEY (AP) — For weeks the staff of a Sydney supermarket kept finding packets of coffee in odd spots—behind the soap powders, among the jams and the tins of soup. They were greatly puzzled, but a close watch revealed the culprit.

A woman customer had an urge to grind coffee in the self-service machine because she loved the aroma. She didn't buy the coffee because she doesn't drink it.

Two Escapees Caught

SUNBURY, Pa. (UPI) — Two of four prisoners who escaped from the Northumberland County prison were captured Monday after a multi-vehicle chase through several counties and two gun battles with police.

Harry Sheeley and Bruce Lands, bank robbery suspects from Newark, N.J., were back in custody today as authorities continued the search for their companions, Michael Clark, a convicted auto thief from Mississippi, and Robert Carr, 22, of Sunbury.

Second Driver Education Class Starts in KHS

A second class in driver education will be started by the Adult Education Department of Kingston High School, according to Raphael Klein, director.

The new class will meet Tuesday evenings from 7 to 9 p. m., for related instruction and in groups of four for actual driving experience once per week.

Registration may be made in person or by phone to the director at the vocational building during the school day or Wednesday evening in the main high school building.

Last Filing Date For Police Exam

The Municipal Civil Service Commission today reminded young men interested in a police career, that the last filing date for police patrolman examination is Wednesday, Sept. 18.

The examination is scheduled for Oct. 19. Further information regarding the applications and examination may be obtained at the office of the Municipal Service at 467 Broadway.

Hold Wedding For Dead Couple

Rabbi Howard Joseph said he will perform a symbolic wedding ceremony Wednesday for a young couple who were killed in an automobile accident east of the New Mexico community of Grants on Sunday.

The parents of the couple agreed to the wedding ceremony for the victims Robert Kames, 21, of Catskill, and Martha Levine, 21, of The Bronx. The couple had planned a January wedding.

Rabbi Joseph said the orthodox wedding ceremony will declare the couple united by the coincidence of their tragedy. "In a symbolic way, they will be united forever in death," Rabbi Joseph told The Associated Press. Funeral services will be held immediately following the wedding.

Primary Day Voting Set in Three States

By United Press International

Voters in Massachusetts, Oklahoma and Washington state were choosing congressional and state candidates for the November ballot in primary elections today.

In Massachusetts, three veteran congressmen were challenged for renomination while four others went unopposed in either the primary or general election.

Rep. Edward P. Boland, D-Mass., a friend of the Kennedy brothers, was expected to have a close race with former Springfield Mayor Charles V. Ryan as Boland sought nomination for a ninth congressional term.

New City Man Gets State Post; Served Here

A New City native, who served as Ulster County's resident public health physician before entering state service in 1951, has been named deputy commissioner for health and hospital affairs for the State Health Department, according to United Press International.

Donald G. Dickson, the State Health Department's associate commissioner for New York City affairs is to be appointed to the $32,194 a year post effective Oct. 15, it was announced Monday.

Dickson entered the state service in 1961 after a year in the Ulster County post.

In addition to his local position he served as a deputy health commissioner in Rensselaer County, health commissioner in Clinton County and in Rockland County before being named associate state commissioner in July, 1966.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., campaigned for Boland five incumbent congressmen—in Kennedy's first political appearance since the assassination of his brother, Robert, in first primary.

In Washington, interest centered on the Democratic gubernatorial race and the GOP nomination for lieutenant governor. Two congressmen were unopposed and four congressmen and four congressmen and Democratic Sen. Warren G. Magnuson faced only token opposition.

In the state house race Atty. Gen. John J. O'Connell was expected to run ahead of state Sen. Martin J. Durkan and him were Republicans Malcolm E. Peabody, brother of former Democratic Gov. Endicott Peabody, and former Rep. Lawrence Curtis.

Big Guns Keep Up Pressure on Czechs

PRAGUE (AP) — Thousands of Soviet troops ring Prague with their big guns aimed at the city to keep pressure on Czechoslovakia's leaders.

The steel ring of Soviet artillery is evident to anyone traveling outside the now tranquil but sad city. Heavy cannon, rockets and missiles point at Czechoslovakia's capital from north, south, and east and west.

One military expert says there is enough artillery not only to destroy the 600-year-old city but to "overkill" it if shelling is ordered.

Guns Everywhere

A short ride on the main highway east of Prague, a left turn toward the village of Dubec and there are 24 big guns set up in the alfalfa fields, their barrels pointed toward the capital. Twelve are lined up in a row to the right of the road; there are two groups of six on the left. The guns appear to be 122mm cannon with a range of more than nine miles. Downtown Prague is less than eight miles away so these weapons could hit the presidential palace on the opposite bank of the Vltava River.

A mile or so farther are five batteries of multiple rocket launchers pointing at the city.

A few hundred yards beyond the end of Prague's Stranice streetcar line, two score Soviet T55 medium tanks are parked, their guns directed toward the city.

Northwest of Prague, near the village of Horomerice, more than 50 big guns are concentrated within half a mile. They include at least 18 122mm howitzers, six huge 152mm cannon plus 85mm guns and 57mm automatic anti-aircraft batteries. Some travelers have also seen missiles mounted on tanks aimed at Prague from the east and several tank regiments.

The artillerymen live in tents near their weapons with ammunition and supplies stockpiled nearby. Estimates of the total number of occupation troops ringing Prague range up to 90,000.

Very Little Camouflaged. Very little is camouflaged, and the site of artillery aimed at the city is clearly visible to Czechs picking apples in nearby orchards or passing on their motorcycles.

The implication is that all the hardware is there to frighten the people and intimidate their liberal Communist leaders to meet Soviet demands.

One major demand, for renewed censorship of press and radio, is now being enforced. As a result, details are meager on the continuing talks between Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily Kuznetsov and the Czechoslovak leaders.

Lorenzo Must Show Cause Why McCarthy Is Off Ballot

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary of State John P. Lorenzo has been ordered to appear Thursday in State Supreme Court to show cause why the name of Minnesota Sen. Eugene McCarthy should not be on the New York presidential ballot in the fall election.

Conservatives To Hear Bell

H. Clark Bell, Republican Conservative candidate for the Assembly, will be guest speaker Thursday, Oct. 10, at a meeting of the Kingston Area Conservative Party at 8 p. m. in the Ulster County Court House.

Conservative Party candidates Michael Lange, who seeks the State Senate seat and Sheriff William B. Martin, who seeks reelection, were speakers at a recent meeting of the Conservative Party.

Lorenzo had removed McCarthy's name at the request of the senator. McCarthy, who was defeated by Hubert H. Humphrey for the Democratic presidential nomination, had written the secretary disclaiming all efforts in his behalf.

The Coalition for an Independent Candidacy obtained the show-cause order Monday from Supreme Court Justice Lawrence H. Cooke.

The Coalition said that McCarthy has not supported its work, and the Coalition has not solicited his backing. More than 20,000 names have been solicited to put McCarthy's name on the ballot, the group said.

The Coalition will meet Saturday in Albany to plan a statewide Draft McCarthy campaign.

6 More N.Y. Viet Deaths

Six more servicemen from New York State have been killed in the Vietnam War.

The Defense Department released Monday casualty list that included the names of: Army Spec. 4 Robert J. Benz, 22, of Syracuse, son of Mrs. Mary A. Benz of Fairport; Army Spec. 4 Harry L. Van Alst Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Van Alst Sr. of LeRoy; Army Pvt. David R. Lilly, husband of Mrs. Catherine L. Lilly of Binghamton; Marine Pfc. Franz Times, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Times of Cherry Valley, near Oneonta, and Army Pfc. Larry W. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Whitney A. Johnson of Corning.

Navy Hospitalman Thomas E. Welker, 23, of Darien Center, about 25 miles east of Buffalo, was killed while serving as a corpsman with the Marines, his mother Mrs. Jean Welker said.

Welker enlisted in the Navy in December, 1965. He had been in Vietnam since August 1.

TB Unit Gives Vitamin Advice

The Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association reminds vitamin takers that vitamins by themselves cannot guarantee good nutrition. "Their job," says the health unit, "is to coordinate the body's utilization derived from other materials. There are, in fact, distinct limits to the amount of vitamin intake that can benefit anybody."

The use of vitamins is a question for doctors or other experts, not patients or laymen, to decide, they add.

Health Clinics

Child health conferences will be conducted by the Ulster County Health Department for infant and preschool children on Tuesday, Sept. 24, from 1 to 3 p. m., at Hasbrouck Hall, Modena, and on Wednesday, Sept. 25, from 1 to 3 p. m., at the M. F. Whitney Hose Co. Building, Chichester Road, Phoenicia.

The clinics are for the maintenance of health and the prevention of disease, notes the health department, and not for the care of sick children. An appointment is required by the department to avoid overcrowding. Parents may schedule an appointment by calling the public health nurse at the Woodstock, Allen, or Milton Health Centers, Monday through Friday from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Good to the Last
SYDNEY (AP) — For weeks the staff of a Sydney supermarket kept finding packets of coffee in odd spots—behind the soap powders, among the jams and the tins of soup. They were greatly puzzled, but a close watch revealed the culprit.

A woman customer had an urge to grind coffee in the self-service machine because she loved the aroma. She didn't buy the coffee because she doesn't drink it.

Two Escapees Caught

SUNBURY, Pa. (UPI) — Two of four prisoners who escaped from the Northumberland County prison were captured Monday after a multi-vehicle chase through several counties and two gun battles with police.

Harry Sheeley and Bruce Lands, bank robbery suspects from Newark, N.J., were back in custody today as authorities continued the search for their companions, Michael Clark, a convicted auto thief from Mississippi, and Robert Carr, 22, of Sunbury.

Second Driver Education Class Starts in KHS

A second class in driver education will be started by the Adult Education Department of Kingston High School, according to Raphael Klein, director.

The new class will meet Tuesday evenings from 7 to 9 p. m., for related instruction and in groups of four for actual driving experience once per week.

Registration may be made in person or by phone to the director at the vocational building during the school day or Wednesday evening in the main high school building.

Last Filing Date For Police Exam

The Municipal Civil Service Commission today reminded young men interested in a police career, that the last filing date for police patrolman examination to be held in Kingston is Wednesday, Sept. 18.

The examination is scheduled for Oct. 19. Further information regarding the applications and examination may be obtained at the office of the Municipal Service at 467 Broadway.

Hold Wedding For Dead Couple

Rabbi Howard Joseph said he will perform a symbolic wedding ceremony Wednesday for a young couple who were killed in an automobile accident east of the New Mexico community of Grants on Sunday.

The parents of the couple agreed to the wedding ceremony for the victims Robert Kames, 21, of Catskill, and Martha Levine, 21, of The Bronx. The couple had planned a January wedding.

Rabbi Joseph said the orthodox wedding ceremony will declare the couple united by the coincidence of their tragedy. "In a symbolic way, they will be united forever in death," Rabbi Joseph told The Associated Press. Funeral services will be held immediately following the wedding.

Primary Day Voting Set in Three States

By United Press International
Voters in Massachusetts, Oklahoma and Washington state were choosing congressional and state candidates for the November ballot in primary elections today.

In Massachusetts, three veteran congressmen were challenged for renomination while four others went unopposed in either the primary or general election.

Rep. Edward P. Boland, D-Mass., a friend of the Kennedy brothers, was expected to have a close race with former Springfield Mayor Charles V. Ryan as Boland sought nomination for a ninth congressional term.

New City Man Gets State Post; Served Here

A New City native, who served as Ulster County's resident public health physician before entering state service in 1951, has been named deputy commissioner for health and hospital affairs for the State Health Department, according to United Press International.

Donald G. Dickson, the State Health Department's associate commissioner for New York City affairs is to be appointed to the $32,194 a year post effective Oct. 15, it was announced Monday.

Dickson entered the state service in 1961 after a year in the Ulster County post.

In addition to his local position, he served as a deputy health commissioner in Rensselaer County, health commissioner in Clinton County and in Rockland County before being named associate state commissioner in July, 1966.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Belcher and the state's other Mass., campaigned for Boland five incumbent congressmen—in Kennedy's first political appearance since the assassination of his brother, Robert, in first primary.

Rep. Torbert H. MacDonald, D-Mass., who once roomed with John F. Kennedy at Harvard, was seeking nomination to an eighth term over the opposition of the Rev. John D. Elder, assistant dean of Harvard Divinity School.

Rep. Philip J. Philbin, D-Mass., a 25-year House member, was opposed by three other Democrats. Vying to oppose Sen. Martin J. Durkan and him were Republicans Malcolm E. Peabody, brother of former Democratic Gov. Endicott Peabody, and former Rep. Laurence Curtis.

In the state house race Atty. Gen. John J. O'Connell was expected to run ahead of state Sen. Martin J. Durkan and Negro lawyer Jack Tanner of Tacoma, Republican Gov. Dan Evans was expected to win renomination easily.

Dear Abby

Soft Soap Goes Long Way

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1968 by Chicago Tribune
N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband accuses me of having affairs with other men, but I swear I've never let another man touch me. He says he is sure he is right because I am cold as ice with him.

Abby, if he would only shave and take a bath maybe that would help some, but he goes to bed in the same dirty undershirt he's worked in all day. (He does construction work.)

He shaves maybe every 3rd or 4th day, and he seldom uses a toothbrush. The sight and smell of him kills all my desire to even kiss him. I am only 32. Is my reaction normal, or is there something wrong with me?

COLD IN HUNTSVILLE
DEAR COLD: You are normal, but there could be something wrong with your husband. The husband-wife relationship is probably the most intimate of all human relationships, and in order for it to provide the ultimate in marital relations, cleanliness is indeed next to godliness.

Tell him, Lady, tell him! But tell him out of love, not anger. A little soft soap sometimes goes a long way.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "MORTICIAN'S SON" interested me because it sounded like my husband and me before we were married. I liked him a lot, but I didn't want to be a funeral director's wife either, so I was all for calling it quits before it got too serious.

Well, my husband-to-be decided that being a mortician wasn't as important to him as I was, so he went into another line and we were married. We've been happily married for 18 years now, and neither one of us has any regrets.

That was real cute the way you told that mortician's son that if his girl didn't "dig" his profession he should "bury" the romance, but I hope you print this to show another point of view.

"HAPPY CHOICE"
DEAR HAPPY: Regardless of the choice in the beginning, we all end up with the funeral director in the end.

DEAR ABBY: "IN A QUANDARY" has set me to thinking. I am not asking you to betray a confidence, Abby, but that letter sounded like it could have been written by the wife of the man I am going with. Was her last initial "M"? This is very important as I would like to find out whether this man is lying to me or not. Thank you.

HIS GIRL FRIEND
DEAR GIRL FRIEND: Sorry, I can't give you any information about the identity of "IN A QUANDARY." But here's a clue: A married man who is "going with" another woman is obviously lying to his wife. And a man who would lie to his wife would probably lie to his girl friend.

DEAR ABBY: I am expecting a baby within the next 2 weeks. My husband has agreed to take me to the hospital and stay with me for 6 hours. No more. He says if the baby hasn't come by that time, he goes.

Abby, this is our first child, and I'd feel so much better knowing that my husband would be with me until the very end, but I can't get him to change his mind.

What is wrong with a man who would make a decision like that?

EXPECTING
DEAR EXPECTING: He's selfish. And a little sadistic.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FOR ABBY'S BOOKLET, "HOW TO HAVE A LOVELY WEDDING," SEND $1.00 TO ABBY, BOX 69700, LOS ANGELES, CAL., 90069.

(Hear Dear Abby Mon. thru Sat. at 10:30 a.m. WKNY-1490).

FORECAST FOR
WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 18, 1968

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Utilize showmanship, dramatic ability. Dress up product. Realize people eat with their eyes as well as their stomachs. Means highlight appeal, beauty. Throw out the humdrum.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Strive to be specific—no beating about the bush. Some say things which bring about discontent. But realize that a conservative course today is best. The truth brings you strength.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Accent on how you get message across. Key is to be complete, not fragmentary, in presentation. Question concerning relative needs to be answered. Be forthright.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Take new approach to financial affairs. Stress greater independence, originality. Young person may make demands that appear exorbitant. If patient, solution is achieved.

LEO (July 23-August 22): Your hunches pay off. Impressions you receive about people, places and actions are valid. Key is to follow through. Obtain hint from CANCER message. Stress confidence, independence.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22): Some of your secret fears due to vanish. Social activity in form of dinner meeting, attendance at theatre proves beneficial. Message from a distance could aid sense of direction.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22): Romantic interests are spurred. There is air of glamor. You could bask in social spotlight. Being with VIRGO individual tonight is favored. Express yourself in calm, sincere manner.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21): Chances for success are enhanced by backing from one in authority. Assume responsibility. Don't grumble.

about overtime. Reward will more than make up for any slight inconvenience.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21): Communication from family member could brighten day. One who has been away could return. You learn through written word. Study various methods. Choose the best in impartial manner.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19): Work and physical well-being are accentuated. Key is moderation. Be careful of diet. Follow instructions. Adhere to safety regulations. You can make lasting friendship if sympathetic.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18): Be aware of necessity of public relations. Some around you today are ultrasensitive. Know this and tread lightly. Older person wants to be heard. Be a good and careful listener.

PISCES (February 19-March 20): Strive to enhance image. Means let others know where you stand and why. Adhere to principles. Say no to individuals who offer get-rich-quick scheme. Avoid excess eating, drinking.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are capable of helping people to aid themselves. You have a knack for building confidence in people who have suffered mishaps. Change of residence or domestic adjustment is strongly indicated.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for LEO, VIRGO, LIBRA. Special word to ARIES: Be sure of instructions, directions. Compile facts.

A lot of modern experts would disdain the two spade response that Oswald Jacoby made to Helen Sobel Smith's opening heart bid. We would not say that they are nuts but rather that they are misguided. Jacoby was on his way to a slam and wanted to alert his partner right away.

Helen's three diamond rebid was normal, as was Jacoby's three hearts. Then Helen bid four clubs and it was up to Jacoby to do a little thinking. It was the second hand they had played together in 25 years and they were playing a cross between 1948 Goren and 1933 Culbertson or what might be called general common sense bidding.

Jacoby decided she was showing both the diamond and club aces as well as shortage in spades. How good were her trumps?

Culbertson had a method of finding out. The five no-trump grand slam force. Would Helen know about it? The bid disappeared in the '30s and has just come into expert popularity. There was nothing to lose. Helen would not pass at five no-trump. He bid it.

Helen said, "I guess I'm expected to do something." Then she thought awhile and bid the grand slam.

There was nothing to play. With hearts and spades both breaking, anyone would make the grand slam but Helen exhibited the technique that would be expected of the greatest woman bridge player of all time. She won the heart in her own hand, led a spade to dummy's ace, a second heart to her hand, a second spade to dummy, drew the last trump and claimed the slam.

She had given herself a slight extra chance and would have made the contract against a 4-1 spade break if the four spades and long trump had been in the same hand. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Video Seminars on Violence

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The dominant theme of virtually all television series, whether they are westerns, cops-and-robbers, spy shows or even the "in-law" series, those mindless comedies about suburban life. In all these shows the resolution of conflict is a single violent act, whether it is an actual shooting or beating, or the symbolic gunning down of an outraged father or a mother-in-law.

Lively, Informative

The first of the seminars, held before 400 industry figures at a Beverly Hills school, was titled "Violence on Television—Who Is Responsible?" As with most seminars, there was no real agreement on the answer to the question, but the discussion proved lively and informative.

The most telling remarks were made by panelist Frank Mankiewicz, attorney and former press aide to Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. Among his comments:

"Clearly television has some effect on children. It has been estimated that the average child watches 20,000 hours of television by the time he reaches maturity. This is about equivalent to the amount of time he spends in school . . .

"Television includes an enormous amount of violence. Children see cartoon cats going through walls or fences or being run over by steamrollers. Then the cats get up and run away. Children also see in live-action shows people getting beaten or shot. But they never see the consequences of such violence—a man spending six months in the hospital with a broken skull or the widow and children of a murdered man suffering along without him.

"I am concerned about the

Dr. John R. Seeley, dean of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions at Santa Barbara, remarked that his concern was not "for Indians being shot or cats going through walls, but the credibility of those in high places."

He said children were exposed to world leaders who justified violence to be a mirror, or a beacon, mass violence, as well as for commercials which make false claims. "I am concerned that young people through their exposure to news and commercials on television will come to view authority as a source of misguidance and misinformation."

Judge Edwards accused television of contributing to "the Rap Brown-Stokely Carmichael syndrome." He declared that Negro leaders while the more moderate leaders were not given a hearing.

Dr. Stubblefield countered: "Certain people in minority groups and in the ghettos were trying to say things about their condition, and their message was not coming through. So it was natural for them to seek those whose message did get through. They may not have proved of Rap Brown, but they saw that he did communicate. His message did get through."

Mankiewicz summed up his feelings: "I don't want television to be a mirror, or a beacon, mass violence, as well as for commercials which make false claims. I am concerned that young people through their exposure to news and commercials on television will come to view authority as a source of misguidance and misinformation."

Video Seminars on Violence

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The dominant theme of virtually all television series, whether they are westerns, cops-and-robbers, spy shows or even the "in-law" series, those mindless comedies about suburban life. In all these shows the resolution of conflict is a single violent act, whether it is an actual shooting or beating, or the symbolic gunning down of an outraged father or a mother-in-law.

My other concern is the portrayal of the mild, meek, despised character who never does any violence, but then achieves acceptance with a violent act. For instance, the Quaker schoolteacher who abandons his principles to shoot the villain in the back.

"We have seen cases of the little guy who is scorned all his life and then achieves fame after a single act of violence. Examples of this type might be Lee Harvey Oswald, James Earl Ray and Sirhan Sirhan."

George Edwards, chief judge of the U.S. Court of Appeals, Detroit, agreed that there was a revolution against TV violence "on the grounds of taste, as well as on the grounds of reality."

Edwards added: "Sometimes when I turn the TV dials in Detroit, I find five shoot-'em-ups on the five channels. Television should try to avoid this sameness of programming. Along with our other freedoms, we should be allowed freedom from violence."

Violence All Around

"I don't think television originated violence; it has existed in our society since the dawn of time. And if anyone proposed that the news be portrayed without violence, that would be a ridiculous concept. There is violence all around us.

"But the cheapest thing to package in the way of news is nonviolence. I would like to see some more nonviolent choices and more care in preparing what is newsworthy."

Dr. Robert L. Stubblefield, chairman of the department of psychiatry at the University of Texas, challenged the television industry as to "whether you

BUGGED WITH FLU—Haggard with the flu but cheered by the polls, George Wallace arrived in Dallas yesterday for the Texas state convention of his American Party. Wallace told reporters at Love Field, where he arrived to the cheers of a small but enthusiastic crowd, that he would not announce the name of his running mate for several days. O'Dwyer Rips Nixon As Late Peace Convert BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — strong dove position only after Democratic Senatorial candidate Paul O'Dwyer has termed his Republican opponent in November, Sen. Jacob K. Javits, a late-blooming peace convert on the Vietnam war issue.

O'Dwyer, who campaigned in Buffalo Monday, met with Erie County Democratic leaders who have offered him their support despite his refusal to back Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey for the presidency.

Humphrey campaigns in Buffalo today.

O'Dwyer said, "The Congressional Record is replete with votes in which Javits supported every bill to accelerate the war." He said Javits took a O'Dwyer termed Gov. Rockefeller's appointment of Republican Charles E. Goodell to fill the Senate seat of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy as "a bit outrageous." He said Goodell was not a bit like Kennedy. He said Goodell proposed last November, while in the House of Representatives, to cut $66 million from the Office Of Economic Opportunity budget, which Kennedy would not support.

More Motorists

Western European countries had 4,343,303 more automobiles registered on Jan. 1, 1968, than a year earlier. North America, with an increase of 3,496,884, was second in car-registered growth and the Far East, with 1,098,336, was third.

Candidates Pledge: Drugs, Riot Control

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Democratic candidate Hubert H. Humphrey, declaring "the riots will be stopped," has promised to forge a federal, state and local government attack on crime and civil disorder if he wins the presidency.

Republican candidate Richard M. Nixon, meanwhile Monday, said drug use is "decimating a generation of Americans" and proposed a program to halt drug traffic and rehabilitate addicts.

Third party candidate George C. Wallace said he will announce his vice presidential running mate in the next few days, and he said both the Republican and Democratic candidates "are beginning to sound like me."

Humphrey's pledge to stop the riots came in a statement in which he endorsed 84 recommendations drawn up by his special task force and called for an "honest, clear discussion" of the crime and disorder problem. "This is not a time for fear-mongering, slogans or empty promises," Humphrey said. "These tactics can only lead to national disaster."

Federal Funds Included

His program included federal funds for better paid, trained and equipped local police; "highly-trained, highly mobile units which can act immediately to stop civil disorders in their early stages," and federal law enforcement technique assistance teams to respond to local requests for help.

"We need not follow the path of blind repression and counter-violence which only tends to increase loss of property, loss of life and loss of control," he said. "But let me make it perfectly clear: the riots will be stopped. I welcome dissent, but not violence and destructive action which actually obstruct progress."

Nixon said in Anaheim, Calif., that his drug control program was prompted by an anonymous letter from a 19-year-old addicted girl who described the horrors of the habit and gruesome things done to support it.

"Let us begin to face facts," Nixon said. "Narcotics are the modern curse of American youth. Just like the plagues and epidemics of former years, these drugs are decimating a generation of Americans."

He said he would try to triple customs agents to tighten border security against drugs, set up commissions with other nations to stem the flow, strengthen federal rehabilitation programs, begin a review of smuggling laws and bring together law officials to discuss ways of ending drug traffic.

No Running Mate

Wallace gave no indication who his running mate will be but said it should be someone "with the qualities possessed by a man like J. Edgar Hoover."

Wallace was in Dallas for the Texas state convention of his American Independent party. He told a rally:

"I used to say there is not 10 cents worth of difference between the Democrats and the Republicans. Now I can say there is not 10 cents worth of difference between some of the things both of them are saying and I am saying."

In other political developments:

—Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said "the American people are tired of being shouted at" and Nixon's low-key campaigning is one reason for his lead in the national polls. But Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield predicted that while Humphrey faces an "uphill struggle" his standing in the polls will go up.

—The U.S. Communist party's presidential candidate, Charlene Mitchell, said in Los Angeles she will measure her success not in votes but in the number of people brought into "our continuing struggle." She said He did not elaborate.

Nixon Can't Coast Remarks HHH Aide

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — A key aide to Hubert H. Humphrey says Richard M. Nixon can't afford to remain quiet in the presidential campaign no matter how far ahead he is in the polls.

Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla., said today that "In my time in politics I have never seen a man who was so far ahead in the polls at the start that he thought he could coast into office get elected."

"I think that is what is going to happen this time. There is no denying that Humphrey is the underdog, but he is a fighting one and before he gets through he is going to smoke Nixon out into the open on the issues."

Harris, a chief advisor to Humphrey was repeating what has become a main theme in the Democratic contender's campaign—to force Nixon into some sort of confrontation.

Seeking Debate

Part of this effort involves getting Nixon to debate Humphrey on nationwide television as he did John F. Kennedy in 1960. Humphrey people think their man can overcome the large margin Nixon has built up in the polls if the GOP candidate will speak out more definitely on the issues.

"Every time Nixon takes a position some of the people who are 'voting against' are going to change their minds," Harris said.

Nixon said during his campaigning in the pre-convention primaries that he would welcome a debate. But he has not commented on Humphrey's challenge and his advisors are reported strongly opposed to such a confrontation.

Harris added that the Humphrey campaign organization, which he said has operated on a largely hit-and-miss basis, is being tightened up, with regional and state coordinators fanning out in all sections of the country.

"We are going to have a non-resident coordinator in every state," he said. "We will have in operation in the next few days a line of communications from top to bottom and from bottom to top."

100,000 votes in November would be a good turnout.

—Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox indicated he might be a Democratic presidential contender in 1972 and said meanwhile "I'm going to try to get some conservatism back in the party."

—Sen. George S. McGovern, unsuccessful Democratic presidential contender, said in Chicago "there is too much empty rhetoric about law and order" by the presidential candidates.

He did not elaborate.

BUGGED WITH FLU—Haggard with the flu but cheered by the polls, George Wallace arrived in Dallas yesterday for the Texas state convention of his American Party. Wallace told reporters at Love Field, where he arrived to the cheers of a small but enthusiastic crowd, that he would not announce the name of his running mate for several days. Wallace originally planned to tape several television appearances after his arrival but cancelled all afternoon appointments to remain in his room. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

O'Dwyer Rips Nixon As Late Peace Convert

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Democratic Senatorial candidate Paul O'Dwyer has termed his Republican opponent in November, Sen. Jacob K. Javits, a late-blooming peace convert on the Vietnam war issue.

O'Dwyer, who campaigned in Buffalo Monday, met with Erie County Democratic leaders who have offered him their support despite his refusal to back Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey for the presidency.

Humphrey campaigns in Buffalo today.

O'Dwyer said, "The Congressional Record is replete with votes in which Javits supported every bill to accelerate the war." He said Javits took a strong dove position only after New York's June 18 primary election that gave O'Dwyer the Senate nomination. O'Dwyer was a strong supporter of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy for the Democratic presidential nomination.

More Motorists

O'Dwyer termed Gov. Rockefeller's appointment of Republican Charles E. Goodell to fill the Senate seat of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy as "a bit outrageous." He said Goodell was not a bit like Kennedy. He said Goodell proposed last November, while in the House of Representatives, to cut $66 million from the Office Of Economic Opportunity budget, which Kennedy would not support.

Candidates Pledge: Drugs, Riot Control

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Democratic candidate Hubert H. Humphrey, declaring "the riots will be stopped," has promised to forge a federal, state and local government attack on crime and civil disorder if he wins the presidency.

Republican candidate Richard M. Nixon, meanwhile Monday, said drug use is "decimating a generation of Americans" and proposed a program to halt drug traffic and rehabilitate addicts.

Third party candidate George C. Wallace said he will announce his vice presidential running mate in the next few days, and he said both the Republican and Democratic candidates "are beginning to sound like me."

Humphrey's pledge to stop the riots came in a statement in which he endorsed 84 recommendations drawn up by his special task force and called for an "honest, clear discussion" of the crime and disorder problem. "This is not a time for fear-mongering, slogans or empty promises," Humphrey said. "These tactics can only lead to national disaster."

Federal Funds Included

His program included federal funds for better paid, trained and equipped local police; "highly-trained, highly mobile units which can act immediately to stop civil disorders in their early stages," and federal law enforcement technique assistance teams to respond to local requests for help.

"We need not follow the path of blind repression and counter-violence which only tends to increase loss of property, loss of life and loss of control," he said. "But let me make it perfectly clear: the riots will be stopped."

"We are going to have a non-resident coordinator in every state," he said. "We will have in operation in the next few days a line of communications from top to bottom and from bottom to top."

"It's late, of course, but it's not too late to get the job done." In a separate interview, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana also said there may be a turnaround in the polls in the remaining seven weeks of campaigning remaining.

Uphill Battle

Mansfield, who is supporting Humphrey despite reservations on the vice president's Vietnam war views, said the Democrats have an uphill battle.

But "it's very early," Mansfield said. "The polls do show a trend but seven weeks is a long time for campaigning in this day and age. I look for Humphrey to go up."

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois took a different view. Nixon's high standing in the polls is due in part to his low-key campaigning, he said. "The American people are tired of being shouted at."
